CURIOUS AND UNPRECEDENTED HISTORY

The Subject of publication on Saturday came before the Judge Written to the Street Commissioner. In the morning judge Davies received information in the morning to quash the certiorari previously granted by himself. He rendered quite a long opinion, in which he said he had reviewed the facts stated in the writ, that on the judicial authority of Judge Paterson he had reviewed, he concluded, that the writ should be granted. After this was written and made to Judge Paterson, he received another argument against granting the writ, and reviewed, and on review, authorizing a search for missing books, which was also allowed. In which work of the Judge began great commotion, when the famous Commissioner, Mr. Conover, with a posse of his Indian legal guard, appeared at the office of the Street Commissioner, and six policemen kept guard over the premises yesterday night, yesterday, and last night, to prevent the execution, understood his intention to take possession of the office in Eldridge-street.

CONTINUATION OF THE INVESTIGATION.

Before Coroner Perry.

The investigation was resumed, this morning at 9 o'clock, in the room of the Court of Sessions. About the usual number of spectators was present.

TESTIMONY OF OFFICER GILLETTE.

Anson Gillette, residing at No. 305 Bowery, was the first witness called.—Is a Policeman of the Seventeenth Ward.

Q.—What do you know regarding the affray on Sunday last? A.—I was on duty in Second avenue; a boy came running up from Avenue A, and reported that there were three policemen in Avenue A, and they were stoning and killing them, and he had better go to their assistance; I started and went down as fast as he could run; when getting near Avenue A met two or three policemen approaching with two or three prisoners; passed on down to the corner of Avenue A and Fourth street, and saw what appeared to be a crowd of men and their wives standing looking on; there was a stone thrown from the top of a house on the southwest corner of Fourth-street and Avenue A; it struck the sidewalk behind witness, and rebounded, striking him on the heel, hurting him; requested those of the crowd who had women with them, and all, to leave; begged of them to leave; some did leave and some did not; passed on through the crowd; there was quite a large concourse of people; and then turned and came back, and saw stones flying from the same direction, he saw them at first; quite a collection of officers had then arrived in Fourth street; as he was passing up he saw a stone come from the upper part of a building and struck Officer Hedden, who fell.

Q.—Had you heard any firing previous to this? A.—Yes. I had heard one or two shots at some distance off.

Q.—Did they come from the officers? A.—No, there was only one officer there then.

Witness then came back to where Mr. Hedden was, and joined with the Police in a platoon; Capt. Hart, ordered them to form in platoon, and they did so; then ordered them to march forward, he being ahead; marched down a short distance when they all stopped; Capt. Hart requested the crowd to disperse; he spoke two or three times; others very loud; stones were also at that time coming from the same building witness spoke of before; the force was then ordered to march forward, and proceeded right up towards the corner building on avenue A and Fourth street, clearing the crowd out of the middle of the street; saw a man in the window right in front of where witness stood, who fired, and as he fired, his attention (witness' attention) was called to Capt. Hartt, supposing that he was the victim; that was the first pistol witness heard fired about there; thought that Capt. Hartt was 10 or 12 feet further down Avenue A than himself; while casting his eye towards Capt. Hartt, witness saw a little further on, a man fall; he was a large man who had no coat on.

Q.—Did he fall the moment the pistol was fired? A.—Yes, Sir, I thought so.

Q.—Did you hear any other pistol fired immediately after? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you hear any fired immediately before he fell? A.—I should think not; I was very much excited at that time.

After witness came back from the corner the officers fell in and marched down Avenue A towards Third-street; while going down they were assailed with a volley of stones from an alley-way, which struck several of the men, and injured some of them severely.

Q.—Well, what did you do then? A.—We went down the avenue, clearing the walk as well as we could; and then a man was shot.

Q.—Were there many people standing about this man you saw shot? A.—There were quite a number.

Q.—How many, about? A.—I should say about twenty.

Q.—How far was he from Captain Hartt? A.—About four to six feet.

To a Juror—On which side of the street did you stand when you say the man was shot? A.—On the southwest side, nearly opposite the second front window.

Q.—In what direction from you did Captain Hartt stand? A.—To my right.

Q.—Did Captain Hartt stand near the centre of the street? A.—No; he was near the sidewalk.

Q.—When you saw this man fall, was he nearly under the window, or at an angle? A.—He must have stood at an angle.

Q.—From which window did the shot come? A.—Cannot positively say; it might have been the second, and it might have been the third.

Q.—You are very sure he was not directly under the window, but a little one side? A.—Yes, I think so.

Q.—Why did you think they were aiming at Captain Hartt? A.—Because there had been threats made of shooting him.

To the Coroner—Did you hear Captain Hartt give orders to fire? A.—I heard him give orders not to fire.

To a Juror—Did you have a pistol? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you fire it? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you see any other officer have a pistol? A.—Yes, I saw one.

Q.—Were you hurt much at the time of the disturbance? A.—Yes, I was struck several times on my legs, arms and back with stones, and have been laid up since; can hardly get around now; only two or three of the others have been laid up, though they were more or less injured.

The Coroner stated that Officer Hedden's physician called on him yesterday, and expressed an opinion that his patient was in quite a critical state.

TESTIMONY OF THOMAS H. BERGEN.

Thomas H. Bergen, residing at No. 111 Second-street, was next called. Witness stated that the house he lives in is occupied as a school; he was in his room on Sunday evening, when he heard a great shouting in the direction of Fourth-street and Avenue A; he went up to the roof of his house, which overlooks the houses about there, and saw several men, whom he thought were policemen, running up the street; he then heard a number of shots fired, and then all was quiet; he thought he would go out and see what was the matter; he advanced up Avenue A to Third-street; as much as twenty minutes must have elapsed after he left the house until the Police appeared; lots of people were collected on the corner of the streets discoursing of the matter, but witness heard no shouting or noise, nor saw any trouble whatever while he was there; stood on the southwest corner of Avenue A and Third-street; the Police came up near him, numbering between 30 and 40; they formed two abreas, and ran across the street towards a butcher's shop on the northeast corner; witness said he ought to have mentioned that a crowd of people was flying up Avenue A in the middle of the street, before the Police; as the Police ran across to the butcher's shop, some of them began firing on the crowd; immediately a man standing about 10 or 12 feet from him was shot, he was within a dozen feet of the corner of Avenue A and Third street.

Q.—What kind of a man was he? A.—He was a good sized man.

Q.—Did he fall? A.—No; he started to run with the multitude.

Q.—How did you know the man was shot? A.—Why, the crowd exclaimed, "A man is shot."

Q.—You say he ran along with the crowd after he was shot; did you see any evidence that he was shot? A.—Yes; I saw him sally back, and he then moved along with the crowd.

Q.—Was the man standing still when he was shot? A.—He was.

Q.—Which way did the crowd go when the man who you say was shot moved along with them? A.—It went towards Third-street.

Q.—What further did you see at that time that made you think the man was shot? A.—Nothing.

Q.—Where were the police standing when the shot was fired? A.—They were formed in a line corner of Third street and Avenue A, facing towards Second-street.

Q.—Were they standing still at the time they fired? A.—Some of them were stationary, and some were in motion.

The Coroner here remarked that he would go on with the evidence if desired, but he thought it was very contradictory, and that one sentence refuted another.

The Jury requested that witness should go on.

Q.—How many of the officers did you see fire? A.—I should think 3 or 4.

Q.—Which way was the crowd going at this time? A.—They were running down Avenue A towards Second street.

Q.—How many shots did you hear fired? A.—I heard as many as fifteen or twenty in all.

Q.—Where did you stand in regard to the Police when they fired? A.—I stood on the south west corner of Avenue A and Third-street, the Police being in a line with me on Avenue A.

Q.—Which way did the Police fire? A.—They fired down Avenue A.

To a Juror—Do you say the Police were all firing down the street in one direction? A.—Some of them all these evils for which the sanitary party and that alone is responsible.

It is to be hoped that these are the dreams of an extreme Democratic Republican journal. Every effort for the cause, perhaps, show better the spirit of the Democratic party.

The reports are full of rumors of another California Boundary Expedition, undertaken to revenge the recent massacre. There is, however, no mention made on the authority of private letters, of no later date than our own advices from San Francisco. One of the letters say the expedition is to consist of 3,000 men. It is stated on better authority, that discovery made by Col. Graham, before his death, had compromitted several of the highest officials of the State.

The general health of the Republic continues good except in the Southern States, especially Guerrero, where very fatal epidemic fevers prevailed.

"The Vera Cruz Progreso, we find, announces the departure from that port, in good health and spirits, of the company of emigrants recently arrived at that port from this city, for their settlement at Papaloapan. The company consists of forty persons, provided with everything necessary for the success of their enterprise.

A Tampico correspondent of the Tribune & Union complains bitterly of the evasion of the import duties on the Rio Bravo, by which the whole country was flooded with goods of every description, to the great injury of the trade of that port.

A New M. P. Convicted of Assault and Battery.

COURT OF SPECIAL SESSIONS—July 18.

Before Justices Osborne and Timoney.

POLICEMAN IN TROUBLE.

The prisoners' box was as full as usual, the offences charged being, for the most part, assaults and battery, petit larcenies, and keeping disorderly houses. The most interesting case that was tried was that of a Metropolitan policeman, charged with assault and battery, and an excess of zeal in the discharge of his duty. A large number of interested spectators attended to hear the proceedings in this case, and left after it was concluded.

Leonard Schieffin, of the Ninth Ward Police, was the defendant. James Bates, residing at the corner of Clinton and Cherry streets, entered the complaint, and in his affidavit, stated that about 5 o'clock last Sunday morning, he was standing on the corner of Elm and Pearl streets, when officers Schieffin and Gilmore came up and made inquiries about a man who was lying on a stoop asleep; they went to the man and tried to awaken him. Schieffin hit him with his club on the sole of the foot several times with this object. The man was aroused and in turning over accidentally hit one of them in the mouth. They got him on his feet and were going to arrest him and he refused to go with them and resisted, when officer Schieffin hit him on the head with a club.

Martin Ames was placed upon the stand and testified that he was the person who lay asleep on a stoop at the corner of Elm and Pearl streets, July 12; the officers came up and Schieffin hit him with his club on the soles of his feet and afterwards on the head. The witness' head was bound with bloody rags.

Officer Gilmore said he was walking along with Officer Schieffin last Sunday, about 5 A. M., and saw a man lying on a stoop asleep and he went up and shook him to awaken him. There was blood on his shirt, and he thought he was drunk or had been in some fight. Schieffin asked a boy and the witness Bals if they knew him, and afterwards hit the man lightly on the soles of his boots to awaken him. Ames in turning over hit him (the witness) and then jumped up and struck Schieffin. Witness stooped down to pick up Ames' hat and heard a blow with a club and turned round and saw Schieffin with his club raised to strike the man. He told him not to strike him; they could arrest him without that, and they took him in the Station House. In White-street, Schieffin called Ames a son-of-a-b—h and raised his club to strike him again. Judge Osborne.—Was there sufficient resistance offered by Ames to Schieffin to warrant him in using his club. Witness.—Well, I can't answer as to that; I haven't been a policeman long enough to know; I never was in a row before in my life. Judge—Well, say man could answer that, whether he was a policeman or not. The witness said there were a number of persons with their coats off standing around. Alderman Clapsy cross-examined the witness, but elicited nothing further.

A boy was the next witness, and testified strongly against the prisoner. Judge Osborne.—I don't believe his testimony at all; he swears too strong.

Justice Brennan testified that he was looking out of his window in White-street, between four and five o'clock, Sunday morning, and he saw the two officers bringing the prisoner along; Ames turned to officer Gilmore, and said, "Can't you get me a doctor?" Schieffin thereupon seized him, and said, "You son-of-a-b—h, I'll get you a doctor!" and raised his club, and threatened to strike him, and he (witness) called out to him not to strike him.

Dr. Kilbourne testified to the nature of the wound in Ames' head. He could not tell how heavy a blow with a police club would have produced the injury.

Sergeant Nathaniel T. Hicks related what Schieffin had told him about the affair, and said Schieffin's lip was badly cut. Counsel—There doesn't seem to be much trouble about this case. Judge Brennan (with feeling)—It's one of them cases that make all the trouble in New-York—that's all. Counsel made a statement of the prisoner's case. Mid. Clerk—If it please your Honor I should like to say a word. Judge Osborne—You'd better not. The Court think they've got the whole case before them. We're disposed to protect officers in the discharge of their duty and in using the clubs when it is necessary, but when they show temper in executing their duty, the Court feel disposed to punish them. Officer Gilmore says he told Schieffin not to strike Ames, they could take him without that. We want to be impartial in our decision, and when an officer transcends his duty he ought to be punished. Under these circumstances we cannot see how we can get on and do our duty without pronouncing the prisoner guilty. In the meantime the matter will be laid before the Police Commissioners, and Schieffin must be here next Tuesday, at 12 o'clock, to receive sentence.

Officer Thomas F. Curry, of the Ninth Precinct Police, made complaint of assault and battery against John Heffer, of No. 111 East Thirty-third street. He said he was violently assaulted and beaten by the prisoner, July 13, while in the discharge of his duty as an officer. He was in the act of arresting the prisoner, who was dumping dirt in Hammond-street, for a violation of a Corporation ordinance. Judge Osborne—Well, the Judge (Brennan) says he knows him. We find him guilty and fine him $30.

Thomas McGarry, one of the Fourth of July rioters, detained on the complaint of Officer Leonard Schieffling, of the Ninth Ward Police, was brought up to be sentenced. A point of law was raised concerning the prisoner's right of appeal after a final judgment rendered in this Court, and he was remanded till Tuesday, when a decision will be rendered.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The steamship Pendleton, from HAVRE and Southampton on the 6th inst., and the Atlantic from Liverpool on the same day, arrived at this port yesterday. The news from Europe, brought by these vessels, is four days later. We have detailed [illegible] of the attempted insurrection in Italy. It was discovered, it is said, against the King of Naples and the Pope—not with a view to the erection of a [illegible] of Government—but to get rid of the [illegible], and expel the Austrians from Italy. There had also been rumors of insurrection in various parts of Spain, but, at latest advices, the country was tranquil. Another article from the [illegible] on the African labor question, published elsewhere, will attract attention. From [illegible] it appears that, in despite of all the efforts of the Government, the three Republican candidates, CAVAIGNAC, OLLIVIER, and DARIMON, were elected in Paris on the 5th and 6th inst. The work [illegible] the Atlantic telegraph cable is progressing [illegible] On the 7th inst. over 600 miles had been laid. It was expected on board the Agamemnon, and it was [illegible] that the Niagara would be ready for sea by the 15th of July.

[illegible] news from Europe—three days later—we shall probably receive from St. Johns, N. F., the Canadian, from Liverpool on the 11th, is now [illegible] due there.

We have received files of papers from Mexico City to the 8d, and from Vera Cruz to the 7th inst. The approaching war with Spain was the absorbing topic of conversation. It is expected that the conviction and execution of four of the murderers of SAN VICENTE will have some influence on the pending dispute. The elections at the Capital, which took place on the 28th ult., resulted, as we have already announced, in favor of the Liberal party. The country, nevertheless, is in a very unsettled state. ALVAREZ has been unable to progress the insurrection of the South, and the discontent of the Indian population has become general and so serious as to give much [illegible] to the Government.

The steamship Black Warrior arrived at this port last evening, with later news from Havana. A [illegible] occurred between the crew of the American bark Albatross and some Spaniards, in which one of the latter was killed. The Police had, in consequence, seized the vessel and an investigation of the affair was in progress when the Black Warrior left.

Additional advices from Kansas have been received, and we have an explanation of the reason which induced the issuing of the proclamation by the Governor against the people of Lawrence. A committee of the citizens of that place framed a City Charter for submission to the popular vote, which differed essentially from the one granted by the Legislature. This action, as it bids defiance to the Territorial Government, Gov. WALKER pronounces treasonable, and he has accordingly ordered a body of troops to the vicinity of Lawrence to enforce the Territorial law.

There was a prodigious excitement at the Street Commissioner's office on Saturday afternoon. Judge DAVIES quashed his own certiorari, and Judge PEABODY signed the warrant for the arrest of the Mayor and Aldermen's Street Commissioner DEVELIN. A constable, who was ordered by Judge PEABODY to fetch over the books of the Commissioner's office, was met when his work was half done, with an injunction from Judge INGRAHAM,—the Common Pleas had enjoined the Supreme Court, a most extraordinary and fresh proceeding. Meanwhile Mr. CONOVER, Governor KING's Street Commissioner, entered the Compts[illegible] office, and, as his friends lifted Mr. Deputy [illegible] out of the principal seat, he slipped in, and proceeded immediately to appoint his clerks. DEVELIN was arrested on Judge PEABODY's warrant and cast into Eldridge-street Jail for contempt, and there he lies yet. Ex-Police Captain BERNETT, being on the spot, was suddenly developed a Deputy Sheriff, and in that capacity charged CONOVER with a breach of the peace. Justice WELSH coming in soon after, CONOVER delivered himself into his hands. The Justice gave him in charge of Deputy Superintendent CARPENTER, who formally announced him his prisoner; and then that so much of the police force as might be necessary to protect his (CONOVER's) office was at his service. One policeman took the office in charge, and held it for him till he arrives this morning.

A committee of mechanics, appointed by the General Superintendent of Police to report upon the condition of the Police Station-Houses on Saturday handed in the result of their investigations. All the houses, with the exception of the Second, Third, Fifth, Eleventh, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth, are said to be very much out of order, and exceedingly dirty, with the furniture and fixtures broken, many of them having the appearance of being disarranged designedly. From the exceptions to the general dirt and dilapidation require much repairing.

The remaining unsaleable shares of the Central Park Fund stock were taken on Saturday, making 3,766 shares in all. With the exception of [illegible] shares, the stock has been taken at par. The stock will be issued and certificates given in the usual form to-day. By the sale of these stocks the Central Park Commissioners get a very acceptable [illegible].

It is estimated that Mayor WOOD's resistance to the new Police law will cost over $150,000. The question is, will Mayor WOOD pay the bill, as he promised to do, or must the amount come out the pockets of tax-payers?

Capt. WALLACE, of the Metropolitan Police, stationed at Seguine's Point for the defence of the "temporary hospital accommodations," has been starving all the past week to serve a warrant of arrest upon LAFOURETTE, one of the parties identified by two witnesses as engaged in the attack of Sunday night. Last Thursday he entered and searched LAFOURETTE's house. Friday night he was himself arrested by a Staten Island Constable on the charge of burglary, and robbing his (LAFOURETTE's) house of $180. Capt. WALLACE appeared before a Staten Island Justice on Saturday, and gave bail to answer for his appearance to answer the charge. This absurd attempt to gain time, and separate the Captain from his company on a Saturday night so that an attack by the oystermen on the Quarantine buildings was frustrated by the Captain's present action.

Many of the Sunday frequenters to Hoboken were severely cooped serious accident at the Street Ferry last evening. The safety chains parted and the bridge fell, while crowded with persons waiting for a boat to return to New-York. The reports as to the consequences vary materially. One states that a woman was drowned and several seriously injured, and another says there was none drowned, nor were there any seriously injured, although there were some thirty thrown into the River; while the [illegible] says: none were drowned, none were injured, and none were thrown into the water, though one, and he was taken out immediately. It is to be hoped that the last may prove to be the true report. There was a similar accident at the same Ferry on the 29th of May, 1854, and on that occasion, if we remember correctly, there were no lives lost.

The bark J. G. Lewis, which was arrested and brought to anchor in Buttermilk Channel under suspicions of being a slaver, has been for five days in charge of Deputy Marshal O'KEEFE. During this time a slight examination of the Captain's and mate's trunks were made, and some charts of the captain's, and trunks belonging to an absent and mysterious, person carried ashore. Among the articles on board most suspected were two large try-kettles, which are used for cooking food for the slaves. There was, also, pretty good authority for believing that the J. G. Lewis had already landed one cargo of slaves in Cuba. But she was discharged by the order of Marshal on Saturday afternoon, and went to sea the same night. The reasons for the sudden decision have not been ascertained.

The foremen of all the different fire companies of the City have sent in their different reports to the Chief Engineer, from which the latter is now actively engaged in preparing the next annual report. The statements submitted show that during the past year there have been four new companies and about 1,000 men added to the Department. The present number of fire companies are 188, and firemen, 8,500.

The complement of fire-bell ringers for the City is thirty-three. There was a full list when the present Chief Engineer entered upon the duties of his office. He has dismissed two, and the Mayor five, making seven dismissals in all. From what has been said in the papers, and talked outside, one would suppose that Mr. HOWARD had dismissed all the old bell-ringers, and more too.

A concert was given on Friday night at the National Garten, in the Bowery, for the benefit of the wife of MULLER, the victim of the Seventeenth Ward riot. The proceeds of the concert was $50, which amount has been handed to the widow. A benefit for MULLER's wife is to be given Wednesday night at EUSTACHE'S Volks' Theatre. The Committee appointed at the German meeting to solicit contributions in her behalf have collected nearly $150.

The cook of the brig D. D. Deane, a colored man, belonging to Cadiz, complains of outrageous treatment by the Captain and mate of that vessel. His name is ANDREW SUNG, and belongs to Cadiz in Spain. He is under arrest on the complaint of the Captain for an assault, which the cook alleges is trumped up to forestall his complaint, and wrong him out of his wages.

LUDWIG GUMPEL, one of the proprietors of the German lager bier saloon at No. 250 William-street, who was shot by his partner, WM. GERHIGH, Saturday, died last evening at the Hospital from the effects of his injuries. He was unconscious from the time he was shot until he died, so that no ante mortem examination was had. An inquest will be held on the body to-day. GERHIGH is still confined in the Tombs.

The testimony in the case of Captain CONWAY, charged with committing an outrage upon JANE HAGGARD, on board the packet-ship Switzerland, was concluded Saturday; the decision is reserved for a few days.

Three persons were drowned yesterday in the East River by the upsetting of a sail-boat. Their names were, Messrs. G. F. STONE, E. CONWAY and C. W. DICKINSON.

The Street Commissioner's Office.

Mr. D. D. CONOVER, the appointee of Gov. KING to the office of Street Commissioner, is at length in possession of the department rendered vacant by the death of Mr. TAYLOR. The decision of Judge PEABODY, dissent from it who may, places the question between Mr. CONOVER and Mr. DEVELIN just where the Metropolitan Police question was when the Supreme Court came to the conclusion which was afterwards sanctioned by the Court of Appeals. Judge PEABODY goes no further than to say that CONOVER is de facto Street Commissioner, and therefore entitled to the books and papers. The conduct of DEVELIN, which amounts to contempt of Court, is considered by some to be not even bailable as an offence, refusing as he has done either to give up the books of the office of which he illegally held possession, or to make the affidavit required in the premises. He still remains in the Eldridge-street jail, and but for the injunction granted by Judge INGRAHAM, refused as it formerly had been, after a lengthy argument, by Judge ROOSEVELT, the entire dynasty would have been changed from where it was a week ago. The injunction of Judge INGRAHAM, be it remarked, must probably be dissolved in a day or two; the proceedings in relation to the books of the department have already excited indignation enough in professional, as well as unprofessional circles, they being manifestly illegal.

The Street Commissionership question has, as yet, been only before single Judges. Neither do we perceive that any appeal has been made which would bring it before the full bench of the Supreme Court. The vacating by Judge DAVIES of his writ a certiorari, is, of itself, a sufficient indication of the opinion of that respectable authority; nor have we been able to meet with a single competent lawyer who really believes that the claims of DEVELIN are of sufficient weight to bear close scrutiny of any kind. The object of the legal gentlemen acting in behalf of Mr. DEVELIN, in getting out the certiorari writ, was, manifestly, to keep the whole matter in the Courts for two or three years. The case would only have come up, in the ordinary course of proceedings, after several hundreds of others, and the time for the appointment of another Street Commissioner might have intervened before it was decided. Now Messrs. BUSTARD & Co. have no resource but an appeal to the Supreme Court, or a quo warranto, which would lead to a decision within the first week after the next meeting of the Court of Appeals. Meanwhile Mr. CONOVER remains in possession, and not Mr. DEVELIN. Excepting with the assistance of rowdies, no immediate means are in Mayor WOOD's hands to oust Governor KING's nominee. The decisions given can be reversed, abstractly speaking, but this improbable result must be the work of time. It is, therefore, to be hoped that the affairs of the Street Department will go on smoothly, and to the public satisfaction.

Where is to be categoried, in the history of municipal integrity, the sum of money which Mr. DEVLIN is said to have expended, in order to obtain the short-lived incumbency of the Street Commissioner's Department? And the lots drawn by the Aldermen,—who shall recompense the holders of the prizes, which turn out to be such very sad-looking blanks? Is the Mayor to refund, to give some quid pro quo, or is nun to be the word with regard to the transactions of the last few weeks? And what is to become of Alderman HEALY? The only remedy we can suggest is to enter an appeal to Mr. CONOVER for mercy, and to induce him to number some of the most important of the dupes among his inspectors.

It may be as well to add, that the story of an assault by Mr. CONOVER upon Ex-Deputy Street Commissioner TUMAN is incorrect. Mr. CONOVER emphatically denies that he either laid hands upon him or instigated any one else to do so. In the midst of the difficulties of Saturday, the late Deputy seemed unaware of his true position, and was certainly compelled to leave the inner room; but for this, much as it is to be regretted, we trust that none of the new incumbents are to be held responsible. It is sufficient for the public to know that Captain BERNETT was present for them to comprehend that a row was inevitable, if that functionary, under pretext of duty, could bring it about. If he held, as pretended, a power from the Sheriff, it is to be hoped that Mr. WILLETT will withdraw it, and thus render a decided service to the public.

The Court of Claims.

It is good economy in the State to treat the public creditor with consideration as well as justice, and according to some uniform system of settling accounts. The United States might have saved hundreds of millions, if at an early day a judicial bureau, or court, had been instituted, to take the place of the practice, so imperfect and corrupting in its influences, of direct Congressional action on claims against Government.

That mode of settlement with the public creditor was indeed sui generis. None such has prevailed, or at present obtains, in any civilized land. Even under most despotic Governments abroad, modes of adjudication are provided for the public claimant, under which his rights are protected and enforced against the State. In France there exists a perfect system of the kind, consisting of a series of tribunals, distinct from the ordinary law courts, in which as to matters of mutual account, the citizen may at all times implead the Government, and the Government the citizen. That system, styled administrative, terminates in the Cours de Comptes, a court of last resort, which ranks with the Court of Cassation, the highest court known by the laws of France.

In Great Britain the subject, through the "Writ of Right," has at all times his remedy, although once attended with delay and expense.

The mode which so long prevailed with us became at length imperfect and oppressive to such a degree, was so hurtful in its morale, and directed the attention of the Legislature so constantly, and to such an extent, from matters of more general importance, that a substitute became indispensible. Public opinion demanded it at the hands of Congress. In consequence was instituted the Court of Claims, which has been in existence now for two years or more, and has performed a large amount of business in a manner most thorough and acceptable.

That Court has its enemies. Claim-agents, generally, in and out of Congress, don't like it at all. It interferes seriously with their vocation; indeed, nearly altogether dispenses with it. They are continually prophesying the destruction of the Court. But that event, fortunately for the country, judging by facts, is far distant.

The strongest evidence that the Court of Claims commands public confidence, is that Congress has confirmed numbers of its judgments, indeed, nearly all of them reported, which, in due course, have come up for final consideration. In the number of the statutes at large, for the third session Thirty-fourth Congress, now before us, are at least eleven acts, passed without amendment as reported to Congress by the Court. And some of these cases were calculated to try the disposition of Congress, as they belonged to classes of claims heretofore there seldom looked upon with favor. Of the number is the claim of JOSEPH D. BEERS, for interest and damages on a bill of exchange, drawn in 1850, by Purser NALLE on the Secretary of the Navy, in favor of Commodore JONES, then in command of the Pacific squadron. The Department, after some demur and tedious delay, paid, as usual, the face only of the paper. The Court allowed the full demand for interest and damages, and the decision was promptly confirmed by Congress. This is the first time that the United States have brought themselves fully within the usual rules governing commercial paper.

The Court has already passed on claims, to an immense amount, adversely to the Government, and it will take a very large sum of money from the Treasury to discharge them. But it has also decided adversely to the claimant, upon scores of claims presented, and the public should bear well in mind, that an adverse judgment by the Court is fatal, not only to the particular claim rejected, but to all others of the same class, frequently numerous and amounting to millions. Thus Government saves immensely.

There is another way in which the United States must be a gainer by the Court. The public creditor, rendered hereafter independent, to a great extent, of the capricious action of Departments, and with the reasonable prospect before him of fair dealing, and an honest fulfillment of its contracts by Government, will naturally set out with views more moderate and correct, and corresponding dispositions on his part as creditor. His bargains with Government will, in consequence, prove less exacting and extravagant in his own favor.

The Court of Claims may be considered no longer an experiment. It has answered the purpose of its creation. But one other step is desirable in advance. Its judgments, subject perhaps to review by the Supreme Court, should pay themselves at the Treasury without additional legislation.

The Judges have recently separated, after a session es permanence of several months, to resume their arduous labors on the second Monday of October next.

The Police Appointments.

The impression is incorrect, which has lately been inculcated by a portion of the press, that no Democrats are to be appointed on the new Police. On the contrary, every Democratic application for the place of Policeman, has, thus far, been favorably received, and, when examined, favorably reported on. The exception has been made to most of those who belonged to Mayor WOOD's force, but the cases of no small number of these latter will, we have every reason to believe, be reconsidered. One or two of the Commissioners may still be disposed to act with less regard to the public interest than from a political and private bias, but they will not be in a majority, and their wishes will probably be overruled. It is particularly to be hoped that the community may not lose the valuable services of certain excellent officers who have never been carried away by partisan virulence, and who have gained the confidence of the people of their districts by their uniform good conduct.

Mr. DRAPER's successor has not yet been named. Ex-Mayor HAVEMEYER is prominently named, and his selection would give universal satisfaction. General SANDFORD is, also, spoken of favorably, but it is judged that he would not accept. General WILLIAM HALL is considered by many to be the best man, and he may be selected to fill the vacant place. It is earnestly to be desired that a vigorous and energetic person, possessing the confidence of all parties, may be assigned to Mr. DRAPER's place, but it is understood that he will be requested to reconsider his hasty resignation.

Intervention in Foreign Affairs.

The position assumed by President BUCHANAN in relation to Nicaraguan affairs appears to be very clearly stated in our Washington correspondence published a day or two since. Every discreet thinker must be gratified by the assurance that our Government will not depart from its policy of non-interference in the personal fight between the several claimants of the Transit grant. If the Executive should attempt to enforce the individual claims of either of these parties, the door would be opened to a perfect flood of applications for similar interference for the enforcement of private contracts of our citizens with various nations; nor is there any sound rule by which a distinction could be drawn between such claims, so as to provide for the enforcement of some and the refusal to enforce others.

The wisdom of the policy which declines to make the United States the guarantor of private contracts of citizens with foreign Governments, is most forcibly illustrated by a consideration of the responsibilities which the opposite policy would entail upon us. Of course we must admit, as against ourselves, the exercise of any right which we claim in our own behalf,—for international obligations are reciprocal. If we, as a nation, claim the right to enforce the contract made between our citizens and Great Britain, upon what good ground can we resist an attempt by the latter Government to hold us responsible for the repudiation of her obligation to foreign creditors for which Mississippi stands disgraced before the world? If we embrace the doctrine of interference in the one case, there is no escape from its corresponding responsibilities in the other.

So far Mr. BUCHANAN's position is highly commendable; but we are not so sure of the propriety of his proposed course in another respect, unless it is decided to be wise and prudent to inaugurate the policy of intervention in the affairs of foreign States,—such as was so generally repudiated when proposed in behalf of unfortunate Hungary. Upon what ground does the Administration object to Costa Rican conquest of Nicaragua? How do we get the right to interpose in the matter? Surely not by virtue of our right to what the authorities on international law denominate "innocent passage" through the territory of a friendly power,—for the change of jurisdiction does not in the least abate that right, or render it more difficult of exercise. On the contrary, we should be the gainers by any arrangement substituting a stable Government over the Nicaragua Transit Route for the weakness and imbecility which have hitherto utterly failed to protect and keep it open.

Again, as a nation we have no vested rights in Nicaragua, in connection with the Transit, to be affected by a change of jurisdiction, for we have no treaty with that Government inviting the opening of the inter-oceanic route through her territory. And if we had such vested rights, we could only insist that they should be preserved and protected by whatever power succeeds to the control of the State. To insist that the jurisdiction over the country shall not change because of our vested rights in it, would be simply absurd. There must be some mistake in this matter, or else Mr. BUCHANAN only proposes an appeal to the kindly feelings of Costa Rica in the premises, hoping that she will assent to a line of policy agreeable to the wishes of the United States. Certainly he does not propose to claim any right on our part to resist the absorption of Nicaragua. If he does—if that is to be the future policy of the United States with reference to Central America—assuredly its extension to the future may be claimed in the case of every nation on earth which excites our sympathies in its struggles against the efforts of Russia, Austria, or any other power, to bring it into subjection or crush out its national life. Once inaugurate the policy, and where, we ask, shall we stop?

A Critical Secretary.

The acts of the Legislature of 1857, came to us in two large volumes, accompanied by a declaration in these words, "I hereby certify that the following volume of the Laws of this State was printed under my direction. J. T. HEADLEY, Secretary of State." The lawyers will find at various intervals throughout the volumes, a star affixed to some word and tallying to this foot-note "so in the original." It would seem that one of the Engrossing Clerks must have been a very poor penman, and had in various instances duplicated words or letters, and in some instances left out a little word or one letter, and these oversights are in effect "patented" by Mr. HEADLEY through his "star notes." Thus, at page 109, a repetition of an "if;" at page 390, of an "in;" at page 685, of a "the," etc.; at pages 109 and 571, the word "alderman" in singular when the context shows it should have been the plural, is marked; at page 266 the same for "day," which should be "ninety days" in the plural; at page 379, we find "sail village" for "said village;" at page 449 and in other places, the final "d" of "and" or the "t" of "at" are thus starred; at page 619 the word "buisiness" is thus misspelt; at page 443, Joseph is printed and starred as "Josheph," and scores of just such trivial mistakes are thus italicised, when the context shows that it was not general ignorance of etymology which caused the inaccuracies but a carelessness certainly reprehensible, yet much too small to occupy the labors of a Secretary of State, who, in half the time he has taken in "starring," could have added the proper letter or removed the improper one. Besides, from whence does Mr. HEADLEY derive his right to thus criticise the acts [illegible] in certainly three instances he is a blunderer himself. Thus, at page 633, he [illegible] in the sentence "to certain lands of which THOMAS STANFORD died seized;" but the law books show that this is a proper phrase, and that seizin' is as proper as seizin', and in earlier law-books more common. At page fifty-three he marks "and" in this sentence, "nor any funds or donations in end of its legitimate objects," when this is a recognized legal phrase. In the Police act he "stars" the word "number" in the section by which a book is ordered to be kept of the "number of meetings."

The Constabulary.

We gave in our paper, some days since, a report of proceedings and of an examination had before Recorder SMITH, in the case of Constables THOMPSON and WEST, arrested on a charge of gross official misconduct in connection with an execution placed in their hands from one of the City District Courts, against a Mr. SALENGER. The case is still under examination before the Recorder, who seems determined to go thoroughly into the matters involved. We leave Constables THOMPSON and WEST to his Honor, not wishing to comment on the pending proceedings against them otherwise than by reporting them as they progress. As public attention, however, is just now turned that way, we take the opportunity to offer some remarks upon the subject of Constables generally.

Constables, in this City, are a numerous and important class of officials. Very serious interests and duties are intrusted to them by law. Their power, if they be viciously disposed, of inflicting misery, is great, and extends to a very large class, and they are, generally, the most unprotected of all others in the community.

The City is divided into seven Districts, over each of which is placed a civil Justice, for the trial of small causes. To these tribunals the poor resort for redress. They are indeed emphatically the poor man's courts. Their justice is easy of access, if not always pure and abundant; and the expense of obtaining it is slight in comparison with Courts of higher grades. Of late years, and particularly by an Act of the last Legislature, their jurisdiction has been very much extended. It was formerly limited to cases of $50 or under. The amount was increased some years since to $100. By the Act of last Winter it has been extended to $250. This gives the District Court a wide range, and renders it a very important institution.

With the exception of the summons, by which actions in those Courts are commenced, and which by the law of last session any one can serve, all process out of District Courts, as executions, warrants of arrest, &c., is executed exclusively by constables. They enjoy a monopoly of the business, which, of course, is very great. Quite a squad of constables is attached to each one of the seven District Courts. They are generally men of little information or education. A large number of them can barely write out the necessary returns on the back of process, simple and stereotyped as they are; and most of them do it with very little regard to spelling or grammar. And yet their duties are delicate, and require no small amount of intelligence for their correct discharge.

Important as the position of the Constable is, the Law, in place of instructing him thoroughly, is almost silent as to his duties, and the manner of discharging them. He is left a discretion altogether too wide for one of his multiplied opportunities for mischief and oppression. Then, also, the law affords but slight protection to those whose interests are in his charge—whose money he handles; and the defendant is wholly at his mercy, from the almost entire absence of provisions for the punishment of his misconduct.

The official bond of a Constable only requires him "to pay to each and every person entitled thereto all such sums of money as the said Constable may become liable to pay on account of any execution which shall be delivered to him for collection." It is silent as to other liability on his part; no one can recover upon it, as in case of the Sheriff's bond, for other misconduct in office.

Then, there is no direct penalty or punishment provided for his case, where he is guilty of misconduct. He may, indeed, be removed, but that is, of course, insufficient. In our report of THOMPSON and WEST's case, it was stated that "the penalty for overcharging is not less than a year's imprisonment in the penitentiary and a fine of $250." Our reporter was misled, probably, by his source of information. There is no law, to that effect, applicable in terms to Constables. There is among the Revised Statutes (2 R. S., 880, Sec. 53, 4th Ed.) a provision to the effect, that where any duty is or shall be enjoined by law upon any public officer, or upon any person holding any public trust or employment, every willful neglect to perform such duty shall be punished as a misdemeanor, namely, by fine and imprisonment as above. This is the act, we believe, under which a Constable may, if at all, be punished, and it seems applicable exclusively to cases of non-feasance or omission to do acts which the law enjoins upon him.

The law is evidently defective, as it relates to duties and liabilities of Constables, and the next Legislature should see to it that it is rendered adequate to the importance and necessities of the case.

As to the fees of Constables, in place of the items, "Anxiety, $6; Thinking it over, $4," &c., the law allows upon executions, besides, of course, the actual necessary outlays, the following fees and none other: For serving execution, five cents for every dollar of the first $50, and two cents and a half upon every dollar over that amount, and six cents for every mile, over one, traveled in "going" upon the duty.

The Constable cannot act by deputy. He must do everything in his own person. By the Act of last Winter, which we have referred to, his duties are extended. Warrants of arrest, issued by judges of the higher courts, may now be given for execution to him as well as the Sheriff. The same law, however, makes a serious inroad upon his office, by taking from him all business of the Marine Court, which now belongs to the Sheriff, except that the Constable, as any other citizen, may serve the summons out of that court for the commencement of actions. The preceding suggestions may be of interest to those who have business, at any time, with the City constabulary, and direct [illegible]

[illegible] Park.—[illegible] Park Fund was [illegible] days; but it has [illegible] a different character in relation to his Honor.

ITALIAN OPERA.—To-night, [illegible] American friends. It is said, that she will return to Europe on early day. We do not [illegible] unfounded. Recently she has received very flattering proposals from Havana, [illegible] Creole families have crowded to very [illegible] they are anxious that she should [illegible] placed in the hands of Max. [illegible] as they have agreed to insure her from loss [illegible] sums she will accept the offer. [illegible] seems pretty certain that for the present we shall lose one of the most admirable [illegible] of prime donne's. Her benefit to night will [illegible] be a substantial token of the regard in which she is held. Totally free from the way-worldiness of [illegible] she has from the first devoted herself to the [illegible] fulfilment of her promises to the public, and on no single occasion has disappointed even [illegible] Be faithful has been to the public, that we [illegible] operatic history in vain for her equal.

A number of friends and admirers have [illegible] a golden crown, and the presentation is to take place to-night immediately after the entry of Mme. [illegible] GRAVES in the first scene of "Norma." The ceremony of the occasion will, we are certain, be witnessed by a very large audience.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.—Dancing is a very [illegible] ment, provided you merely look on. There is something peculiarly refreshing in [illegible] vaulings and twirlings of a set of people who really don't seem to know what feet mean, and who therefore are not entitled to the slightest sympathy. It is cooling to look on sometimes, and to-morrow, for these summer Bible's Garden appears to enjoy a remarkable share of public patronage, and especially on those nights when the [illegible] tenor, Signorina ROZZA, appears. On Monday there was a splendid attendance to witness the presentation of Belle in Pyrenees, a very [illegible] amusing ballet, illustrative of [illegible] stude. In this piece she has a good [illegible] of displaying her particular talents, [illegible] the accomplice of the plot are very [illegible] exacting. Signorina ROZZA is a very [illegible] she dances well and she acts well. Her talent is unquestionable, and her grace [illegible] the force and distinctness of action of the best dancers. Everything she attempts she accomplishes easily, for the simple reason that she does not attempt too much. That is certainly one great merit; another is, that she is handsome and young. Altogether she is an extremely agreeable person, and capable, to an eminent degree, of fixing the admiration of an audience. Her performance of Belle was perfectly [illegible], and the piece generally is played in an effective manner.

A new feature will be added to the performances at this house to-night. Before the regular entertainment and between the acts, there will be a Promenade Concert in the Garden—a pleasant place to cool off.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—This is decidedly the coolest house in the City. To this fact, no doubt, may be attributed the circumstance of its outliving all other dramatic temples. A few weeks ago every manager was going to have a dramatic Sunday-school; one by one they have dropped off, until Wallack's is left almost alone in the entire exposition of the dramatic fold. To-night the excellent burlesque of the "Invisible Prince" will be [illegible], with Mr. JOHN WOOD in the principal character. The other piece is "The Young Widow."

BURTON'S THEATRE.—This theatre will open to-morrow night with Promenade Concerts, under the direction of Mr. NOAH.

OLYMPIC.—The successful burlesque of "Olympians," and the "Pet of the Petticoats," will be played here to-night.

NATIONAL THEATRE.—These plays are announced for to-night: "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the comic pantomime of "Salamanca," and the drama of "Clari, the Maid of the Mill."

BARNUM'S MUSEUM.—Professor WYMAN, the Wizard, gives two of his wonderful performances this afternoon and evening. The other attractions of the Museum are detailed in the advertisement.

The Police Commissioners.

The resignation of President DRAPER had not been officially made known to the Commissioners up to a late hour last evening, and doubts as to the correctness of the report were expressed by them, notwithstanding the publication of his letter of resignation.

A specimen of the new shield or badge to be worn by the officers of the Department was exhibited on Saturday. It is of German silver, rather smaller than the other, and neater in every respect. The words "Metropolitan Police" are more boldly defined, and the shield is divested of the showy ornament which were so objectionable in the former.

Mr. CHAS. ROSEBOOM, who formerly superintended the police and fire telegraphic apparatus, had an interview with the Commissioners on Saturday, at 12 o'clock. They requested him to proceed forthwith to put the police telegraph in order. He has examined the apparatus in all the Wards, and two or three of the lines are already in order. The others will all be ready before the end of the present week. The telegraph will immediately facilitate the business of the Deputy Superintendent, and he hopes to obtain possession to-day, and convey to his office in the old Chief's office, in the Basement of the City Hall. A portion of these recent improvements, [illegible] the use of the Street Department, [illegible] CONOVER, has been installed Street Commissioner, [illegible] has consented to pass them over to the Deputy Superintendent.

A threatened Riot in the Seventeenth Ward.—About the middle of the afternoon report was made that the Dead Rabbits were coming up to Blackwellville in the Seventeenth Ward, to have a fight with the Forty Thieves and the Atlantic Boys; at first it was considered but another attempt to get up a sham fight, with a view to draw the Metropolitans into the contest, and then to join forces and give them battle. Captain HAYES was [illegible] gathered cart-loads of paving stones and [illegible] the house-tops for their reception. Under these circumstances he should act with great caution in going into any contest if it should be commenced.

Patty WELSH was seen up in that part of the Ward on Saturday, apparently bent on mischief.

Several reports reached the Station-house that the Dead Rabbits were already [illegible] on the Corner of Avenue A and [illegible] street. Our reporter accordingly [illegible] and passed through the place. There were some fifty or sixty rough-looking customers present, with the opposite corners of Eighteenth street, with [illegible] several of them having clubs in their hands. The mob-spirit was evidently rampant, and they were only awaiting the appearance of a policeman, or some other plausible excuse, for beginning a row. As the reporter passed through the crowd he was taken for a Metropolitan. There was a sudden [illegible] the word passed, and a crowd followed close after him in a menacing attitude. He kept along without looking or looking behind, and concluded he would go this way again soon. A policeman with his club [illegible] cannot yet pass through that part of the Seventeenth Ward in safety. Captain HAYES, however, [illegible] his own house unmolested.

Payments.

The following is a list of Americans [illegible] at the Banking Office of the American European Express Exchange Company, Paris, from June 24 to July 2, 1857:

Weeks, W. M. Tileston, W. R. Wilson, [illegible] Warner, S. Wilder, Dr. E. W. Dudley and [illegible] Lawrence, R. C. Phillips and lady, John [illegible] E. J. Woolsey, C. H. Shaw, John E. [illegible] H. N. Cobb, C. Lockman, John P. Hewson, [illegible] man, H. J. Van Dyke, G. C. Flemming, [illegible] J. P. Wallace, W. A. Paddock, [illegible] Fannie, E. Gregg, A. Hill, [illegible] Churchman and family, M. Ayres, [illegible] I. D. G. Wood, J. B. Wheelwright, [illegible] family, of Louisiana, Wm. Hunter, [illegible] Cuthbert, South Carolina.

The London Globe says that [illegible] Majesties the Emperor and Empress of the French are expected to pay a visit to Queen Victoria, at Windsor, in the early part of August, and to remain a week or two thereabout, and to make excursions, during that time, with persons and parties of pleasure, through her Majesty's martime residence and its environs.

[Special Dispatch to the New-York Daily Times.]

WASHINGTON, Sunday, July 19.

The news is confirmed that the President has received a dispatch from Governor WALKER, of Kansas, that he had issued a proclamation commanding peace, and summoned a large military force to Lawrence to enforce it.

Governor WALKER is determined to maintain the laws and Constitution at all hazards, and the peop[illegible] feel that he is the man for an emergency. Cool [illegible] and determined, he possesses great nerve and is [illegible] of undaunted courage. It is fortunate for the peace and [illegible] of the country that an occasion has occurred to give Governor WALKER an opportunity to manifest his courage and ability, and to demonstrate the firm resolution to carry out his instructions and support to the letter the provisions of the Nebraska-Kansas Bill. His prompt action will have a great moral effect upon the people, and will no doubt be the means of preventing hereafter all acts which might have a tendency to lead to riot and bloodshed.

In accordance with the express wishes of Governor WALKER, Gen. HAGERTY, and a sufficient force of the Dragoons and Light Artillery will be detained at Fort Leavenworth until after the October elections. Col. Albert S. Johnston, of the Second Cavalry, now in Texas, will be ordered to proceed in command of the troops to Utah.

Startling Disclosures in Reference to New-York Politics—Two Thirty Pieces of Silver in Active Circulation—Secret Movements for the Bargain and Sale of the Reform Organization—Parties to the Contract—Consideration—Mode of Delivery.

[Special Correspondence of the N. Y. Daily Times.]

WASHINGTON, Saturday, July 18, 1857.

Information has reached here of the movements on foot by a few individuals in your City to sell out the regular organization of the Democratic party to FERNANDO WOOD, for a price agreed upon.

The leading parties to this arrangement are, 1st, [illegible] P. BENNETT, who hails from Lancaster, Pa., and has squatted long enough in New-York to obtain through his claimed relationship with Mr. BUCHANAN an election as delegate to the Reform Committee, [illegible] to carry with Mr. B. the position held by [illegible] of New-Hampshire, in PIERCE'S [illegible] Cabinet. 2d, PETER W. ROSS, who has been promoted the nomination of THEODORE H. TOMPKINS, his son-in-law, for District Attorney—should the arrangement prove successful. 3d, ELIJAH F. PURDY, who pretends to be actuated by revenge, but really supposed to be made Chairman of the Consolidated swindle. 4th, THOMAS DUNLAP, of the Powder Mag, Deputy Naval Officer, who declares he will be Deputy Collector if successful, and says he "Controls the Committee." 5th, GEORGE F. THOMPSON, of the News, who does this an condition of receiving material aid for his paper. 6th, DAN B. DELAVAN, promised the nomination for Registrarship. 7th, E. B. CONOLLY, who hopes to be aided by the new combination in his aspirations for Clerkship of the next House of Representatives. 8th, BENJAMIN D. DILLAYE, General Appointer, a political emigrant from Syracuse, who is the "General Bum" of the arrangement, and labors under the delusion that meddlesomeness is influence. 9th, FRANCIS MORRAY, who boasts that he wields the Irish vote; and THOMAS WHEELAN, known as "Irish Tom," who is secured by promise of Governorship of the Almshouse in the forthcoming deal. This pack has been shuffled by Mr. WOOD in his own peculiar way; and he has every reason to hope that the knave (himself) will turn up as trump.

The plan seems to be this: A meeting of the Reform Committee is to be secured under the pretex of peace and harmony, and when convened a resolution will be sprung and forced through to swamp the new committee by calling it with the Wilson-Small men, at present packed—giving WOOD the absolute control of the combined organization. And when this has been effected, all the members of the Joint Committee who will not become the tools of FERNANDO WOOD will be expelled—as was done in the Wilson-Small Committee,—thus restoring to FERNANDO the entire dominion and perpetual control of the party, and undoing all that has been done towards a reform of the Primary Election system.

This is looked upon here as one of the most stupendous political plots of modern times, and creates great anxiety. It was supposed that the Reform movement had been settled on a lasting basis; and that whatever disputes existed in reference to local organizations, would be settled by the State Convention in favor of the Reform Committee, now in possession of Tammany Hall, and obviously the only regular organization of the Democratic Party in your City. The Wilson-Small Committee has no semblance of authority, because—independently of its equivocal position in relation to the differences between itself and the Savage Committee, to the decision of the Reform Convention, nearly all its members who were claimed to have been elected in January, have either retired from it or been expelled, their places being supplied with the tools of FERNANDO WOOD.

Thus, in the consolidation, Mr. WOOD would start with 130 votes solid—the whole being but 220; and with the votes and assistance of those whom we have named in the Reform Committee forming a dominant and tyrannical majority.

The merits of this controversy lie in a nutshell. In January last there were two organizations claiming to be the General Committee, presided over respectively by JOHN Y. SAVAGE, Jr., and WILSON SMALL. An investigation took place as to their title, when it appeared that the Wilson-Small men had been got together by the vilest system of fraud ever concocted; the inspectors having been packed in advance—the appointment of election signed, before even the form of voting had been transacted; in many instances fictitious names inserted as elected, to be afterwards filled up by policemen in Mr. WOOD'S employ; and all the processes of fraud in the rotten system of ballot-box stuffing heretofore in use, were found developed therein, and in the highest state of perfection.

This culmination of wrong and party oppression brought about a storm of indignation amongst the members of the Democratic party, against which the leaders could not stand up; and the result was, that Mr. BUCHANAN's friends in your City, deeming this a proper period (there being no election at hand) to inaugurate a thorough reform in the mode of party organization, required that the differences between both Committees should be submitted to a Convention chosen equally by the two Committees; and this was agreed to by both. The delegates from each ward by the Wilson-Small and Savage organization respectively, in writing two delegates respectively—making 80 in all, and to these were added arbiters as agreed upon—the whole amounting to a Convention of 115, representing all shades of Democratic opinion in the City, and publishing as members, Messrs. WILSON SMALL and JOHN Y. SAVAGE, Jr., Chairmen of the Contending Committees.

This Convention met, and within the time fixed by their notice by the agreement of the two Committees, they adopted a system of party organization by establishing Ward Associations, designed to give each Democratic voter an equal and honest voice in the selection of all delegates to nominating conventions; and, in conformity to this, three Ward Associations were formed, a General Committee which had been appointed by the Joint Committee of Seventy, and the Ward Associations proceeded to elect their delegates to the General Committee, which had been appointed by the Joint Committee of Seventy, and which has sole and exclusive possession of Tammany Hall.

The Savage Committee, acting in good faith, according to the agreement entered into, have disbanded. But the Wilson-Small body, in violation of their agreement, have refused to disband. In this state of the case, the question for the State Convention will simply be: "Shall the Wilson-Small Committee be continued in their original frauds and subsequent breach of faith, or shall the regular Tammany Hall Committee be sustained?" The answer cannot be doubtful.

The conspiracy to which we have referred is designed to prevent this issue being passed upon by the State Convention, and to induce the members of the regular Committee to cut their own throats before that time arrives. The difficulty, so far as FERNANDO is concerned, arose from his disappointment with regard to the Chairmanship of the new Committee—that post being assigned to EDWARD COOPER—and he imagines that, like Samson of old, being shorn of his political strength, he can still bring the temple down in ruins on the heads of the feasting Philistines; or that at least he can slay them with the jaw-bone of an ass. (Query—Any allusion to TOM DUNLAP's chin?)

It is reported here, but not believed, that Mr. SOUSLE favors this scheme to break down the reform movement. It is known that he favored the Reform movement from the commencement, in all their steps from the first struggling origin to their final triumphant close; the particulars of which you will receive by mail in a few days. Besides, the movement has been supported by all the members of Congress from New-York, four of whom—HORACE F. CLARK, JOHN KELLY, DAN E. SICKLES and JOHN COCHRANE, having been active members of the Reform Convention; and WM. B. MACLAY and ELIJAH WARD having joined the associations in their respective Wards, and the latter even assuming the presidency of the Sixteenth Ward Association.

Mr. BUCHANAN desires to sustain the Reform movement, and that the differences between the two Committees should be submitted to the State Convention, and that the decision there made shall be sustained by the Federal officers without exception. It is plain, therefore, that the new Committee has only to stand its ground to be established beyond dispute or question as the only regular Democratic organization in the City of New-York. The complaint that the present Ward associations are not perfect, is an objection that can be easily remedied; and it has been suggested by Mr. COBB that any restriction to the admission of any Democrat shall be removed, so that the only pretext for complaint may be taken away. This the new Committee will undoubtedly do, if their views are correctly represented by the gentlemen who are at present here on their behalf; and, we would ask, with all the Democratic voters enrolled in single Ward associations, what shadow of substance remains for the assertion that the Democratic Party is not united in your City?

It has been reported here that Mr. SOUSLE threatens to use the influence of the Custom House to crush through the Wilson Small (otherwise Wood) movement, but the compliment is here paid to Mr. SOUSLE of entirely disbelieving it. It is known that your new Collector is a man of few words, and that there are many impudent pretenders who claim to speak for him by authority—including FERNANDO WOOD himself, who, generally, commences all political discourse with the expression, "SOUSLE and I have agreed." This mode of manufacture, Mr. COBB believes to be the only authority for the insulting insinuation.

The President is very emphatic in his declarations that the Custom-House spoils shall not be used to coerce or purchase the votes of representatives against their consciences. Custom-House dictation, he says, divided the Democratic party in Mr. PIERCE'S time, and the day for "crushing out" independent men has passed. He does not want to see the party divided again, through the forced resistance of men who will not submit to dishonor, and of these matters, with fuller details of events and conversations, I will send you full particulars by next mail.

News from Kansas.

THE CAUSE OF GOV. WALKER'S PROCLAMATION TO THE PEOPLE OF LAWRENCE.

ST. LOUIS, Saturday, July 18, 1857.

GOV. WALKER'S proclamation to the people of Lawrence is received here. Its issue grew out of the fact that a Committee, acting in behalf of the citizens of Lawrence, had framed for submission to the popular vote a City Charter differing essentially from that granted by the Territorial Legislature, thereby bidding defiance to the Territorial Government.

This action of the Committee Gov. WALKER pronounces to be treasonable, and he has ordered a body of troops to the vicinity of Lawrence, in order to prevent further proceedings in the premises, and to enforce the law.

The statement that it is WALKER's design, through this movement, to keep in Kansas the troops designed for Utah, as a pretext for the administration to back out of the Utah expedition, is mere speculation.

News from Port-au-Prince.

BOSTON, Saturday, July 18.

The brig R. W. Packer, Capt. MAYO, has arrived from Port-au-Prince, bringing dates to the 1st inst. Captain MAYO reports that the sickness was increasing and business very dull. COFFEE and LOGWOOD were very scarce. The R. W. Packer left Port-au-Prince with two-thirds of a cargo, after waiting for twenty-five days. While there the first officer of the brig and one seaman died, and on the passage to this port the captain's son, aged 16 years, died of the fever.

Non-Arrival of the Circassian.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sunday, July 19—7 P. M.

The steamship Circassian, from Liverpool on the 11th inst., with three days later advices from Europe, now fully due at this port, has not yet been signalled.

Another Fire at the State Lunatic Asylum.

UTICA, Saturday, July 18.

A fire broke out in this city this afternoon about five o'clock, which consumed a large stone barn belonging to the State Lunatic Asylum, used as a storehouse for the furniture saved from the fire last Tuesday. The walls only are left standing. Loss about $10,000. The fire is supposed to have been the work of a patient at the Asylum.

Alleged Shameful Outrage on a Sailor.

The brig D. D. Evans, Capt. WARREN, of Brewster, Me., arrived on Wednesday, from Nuevitas. On Saturday Capt. WARREN made complaint against his cook and steward, a colored man, named ANDREW SUSE, for an assault upon him with a carving-knife, in some port where the vessel touched. A warrant was procured and given to Deputy United States Marshal O'KEEFE to execute. The offender had been landed at the Sailor's Retreat, Staten Island. He was represented as a most dangerous man, and very turbulent. Mr. O'KEEFE accordingly provided himself with handcuffs, and made every preparation for capturing a hard subject. Upon arriving at the Retreat, however, he was very much surprised to find a diminutive and harmless-looking colored man, crippled in his limbs, with marks of bruises and wounds upon his face, and scarcely able to stand or go. One of his knee joints was fractured, or so badly swollen as to make him a cripple; in a word this poor black man says he has been the victim of most inhuman treatment on the part of this Captain and his officers. ANDREW SUSE belongs to Cadiz, in Spain, and says he shipped with Captain WARREN as a Spanish subject, about four months since, for a voyage to the West Indies, to act as cook and steward; that the Captain and mate, soon after sailing, began to abuse him, frequently beating and otherwise maltreating him. They stopped at Jacksonville, Fla., where he was taken out of the vessel and confined in jail until the vessel sailed. In Havana he offered to refund what was due the vessel of the month's advance he had received, if the captain would allow him to leave the vessel and escape his miseries. But he was refused a discharge, and, upon attempting to find the Spanish Consul, was arrested and thrown into prison, and kept at hard labor by the Captain's orders. They then went to Nuevitas, and returned to New-York. On the passage home, ANDREW alleges he was flogged, seized to the vessel's anchor, and triced up the main-stay by his wrists, and otherwise brutally maltreated; that he was at one time cut down from the stay, and fell into a molasses hogshead, badly injuring his knee; that for three weeks he was kept tied up, and fed on bread and water. He wholly denies that he ever attempted any assault upon the Captain, and says that the charge has been trumped against him to forestall all his complaint against the captain and mate for the abuses he has suffered, and to cheat him out of his wages, some $60, now coming to him. ANDREW is in the custody of the Deputy Marshal, who intends to have the case investigated, to aid him in which he wishes to see ANDREW's shipmates.

LATEST FROM HAVANA.

Arrival of the Black Warrior—Seizure of an American Ship by the Police of Havana—Shipping, &c.

The U. S. M. steamship Black Warrior sailed from New-Orleans on the 12th, Havana on the 15th, and arrived at this port early yesterday afternoon.

From Havana, we learn that a Spanish sailor was reported to have been killed in a row with the crew of the American bark Albertina, on the night of the 11th. The police had in consequence taken possession of the vessel, (as she lay at the wharf,) and no one was allowed to go on board or leave her, except the American Consul or his deputy, Mr. SAVAGE, who has been examining the crew. The result of the examination by the deputy Consul had not transpired.

The British ship-of-the-line Orion, propeller, Capt. BERRIEN, arrived at Havana on the 14th, from the Isthmus, and was to sail in a few days for Halifax, all well on board.

The American Consul, Col. BUTLER, would leave on the 23d for New-Orleans, on a visit to the States.

Sugar market as last reported. Stock at Havana 140,000 boxes, at Matanzas 75,000. Exchange improved—on London 11¼ ⅌ cent. premium, on New-York and Boston ⅜ ⅌ cent. to 1 ⅌ cent. premium. Freights dull, and but little tonnage in the port. The city still free from the fever.

The Liquor-Shops Shut, and a Quiet Sunday.

Yesterday was a model Sunday in all the Wards of the City, except the Seventeenth, in which the riotous disposition was not altogether quelled, though there was no actual outbreak. The observance of the law, enforcing the closing of liquor saloons on Sunday, was pretty general, the violations being principally on the part of keepers of lager-bier cellars of the lower class. After dark, however, most of the drinking-places on Broadway, of the more pretentious order, were busied in vending potations that were not confined to lemonade, lemon-soda, sarsaparilla, or even cider. In the Bowery and William-street lager-bier flowed freely after 9 o'clock, and in Avenue A there was no pretence of observing the law after 8 o'clock P. M., or thereabouts. Still, in defiance of lager-bier, weiss-bier, and the more potent draughts, yesterday was the most quiet Sunday our City has enjoyed for a long time. The following ordinance, issued and signed by the District-Attorney, and distributed to each Police station, is answerable for much of the improvement.

The public sale or public keeping of liquor upon Sunday is forbidden, not because the article is liquor, but because the law for thirty years has forbidden the sale of any thing on that day (except meats, fish and milk, before 9 o'clock, A. M.) It is forbidden not because the Police law or the new license law first forbid, for the Revised Statutes forbid it and the Ordinance of the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty passed in 1855 (see collection authorized to be printed in 1855 at page 518) forbid it. All these prohibitions are concurrent. Whilst it may be a new thing to close shops on Sunday, the law took on the subject is no novelty. But the Police law only makes a new penalty in these words:

SEC. 21. "It shall not be lawful for any person to publicly keep or dispose of any intoxicating liquors upon the first day of the week called Sunday, or upon any day of public election within the said the Metropolitan Police District, under a penalty of $50 for each offence, to be sued for and recovered in the name of the People of the State of New-York by the District Attorney of the county wherein the offence is committed for the benefit of the Police Contingent Fund hereby authorized," (the fund for sick and disabled policemen.)

By the ordinances of the Mayor and Aldermen a concurrent remedy of arrest or warrant by a magistrate is provided and the prohibition specific as to wine, ale, lager-bier as well as to the general phrase intoxicating liquor.

The undersigned being charged by law with a duty whose disobedience renders him liable to a prosecution himself for misdemeanor, and by permission of the Board of Police, and in furtherance of his duty upon their orders, submits the following plan of instructions to patrolmen:

Take the foregoing explanations of the law, and carefully, but politely, inform every vender, not only of liquors, but of all wares and merchandise on Sunday, of the provisions, and request an immediate closing up of the establishment, in such a way as to indicate to the public that no sale is to be expected. The law cannot force a man to evacuate his store entirely on a Sunday—that is a question of morals. Nor to entirely close the access of air or light if it be necessary for him to have this, as may be the case when the store is as well his premises of residence.

If he refuses or neglects—or if under pretence of closing, still "publicly keeps and disposes of wares," then each Patrolman will please to fill up the blanks below, and at close of Sunday file with Inspector, who will send them to the undersigned.

The undersigned will then commence suit for the $50 penalty, or proceed under the Ordinance as the exigencies of the case may demand, and the blanks thus filled up will be his voucher for evidence. Patrolmen will remember the new penalty is for their benefit, since the proceeds go to the fund for their relief & sick etc. And the undersigned will, if costs be obtained, also devote them to the fund after deducting disbursements.

A. OAKEY HALL, District Attorney.

The reports from the various Wards to a late hour last night, were as follows:

First Ward.—This Ward was comparatively quiet. That is, there were less than a dozen knock-downs and grog-shop affrays. All such were soon put down by the police—the belligerents being either arrested or dispersed. These difficulties were nearly all confined to the western section of the district. During a fight in BARNEY Lows' grog shop in Washington-street, a laboring man, named WILLIAM HYERSON, living at No. 6 Carlisle-street, was knocked down, and then had his lip bitten nearly off by his assailant. Officer C. L. DEGE of the Second Ward conveyed the man to the drug store of Dr. VAN LIEN, corner of Rector and Greenwich-streets, where the lip was sewed on again. The liquor stores were very generally closed. Not all the dealers have yet been notified in this Ward of the new law compelling them to shut their places on Sundays. When this notice is fully promulgated and fully understood, the law will be fully complied with. So say the police.

Second Ward.—This little Ward is nearly always well-behaved. It has less low places of resort than any other in the City. It outdid itself yesterday in quietness. A few of the liquor-sellers kept open, but the bars of the principal public houses were "dry" to all but boarders.

Third Ward.—This Ward, which does not embrace what, under ordinary circumstances, may be considered the most peaceful part of the City, inasmuch as it includes a large portion of West, Washington and Greenwich-streets, where a small row is the usual concomitant of a fine or wet Sunday—this Third Ward was yesterday noted for the great tranquility which prevailed. Inspector HOPKINS reports everything unwontedly quiet. The liquor stores were generally closed altogether. In Washington and Greenwich streets liquor was sold at about thirty places with unclosed doors. At about the same number of places the doors were fastened, and, ostensibly, no rum was to be procured, but the "knowing ones" were easily admitted, and with less daylight than usual, as many "horns" as on previous Sabbaths were engulphed. But altogether the Ward was very quiet, and as far as the Police discovered, altogether moral.

Fourth Ward.—Not for a long time was the Fourth Ward so quiet as on yesterday. The police had but very little to do. They took in "a few for drunkenness, and, for stealing a pair of gaiters, one old bummer," who made the welkin ring with long-continued bellowing, when placed in the cells. His friends explained his annoying conduct by saying that he had the delirium tremens. Late in the day a drunken man was taken from the boarding-house No. 99 Cliff-street, where he created a great disturbance, and stabbed a woman in the arm with a sword. Many of the drinking places—nearly all of them the very worst—were closed, but many were also open—especially in Roosevelt and the streets leading from the Bowery. All such have been noted. A man named JAMES HOARE was attacked by a party of ruffians at the corner of Roosevelt and Cherry streets, about two o'clock on Sunday morning, and severely cut in the cheek and over the eye. He was taken to Dr. HUTCHINSON, 90 Cherry-st., when, after having his wounds dressed, he was conveyed home by his friends.

The Jews along Chatham-st. were very generally closed; those that were open appeared to be occupied also by the proprietors as a residence. The lager bier and liquor shops were mostly shut. The cigar stores and ice-cream saloons paid but little attention to the order.

Fifth Ward.—Sergeant HUTCHINGS reported everything well in this Ward yesterday, with one exception. At BIRLE's "Old Star," in Lispenard-street, three ruffians named JAMES MCLEOD, THOMAS CARPENTER and JOHN HAMILIN, being unable to procure liquor, attacked the premises, beat the door in, and broke the window. They were quickly arrested and lodged in the Station-house of this Ward. With this exception, everything in the Ward was quiet.

Sixth Ward.—Old residents declared that never before had they seen such a quiet Sunday in the Sixth Ward. This quietness was owing, of course, in a great measure to the general observance of the law requiring all bar-rooms to be closed. The stoops and sidewalks were never so crowded with men, women and children, seeking dubious air and conversation away from their narrow apartments up crooked alleys and lofty buildings. Their sports were somewhat rough and boisterous, but it was all good-natured and peaceable. The police were about with badge and shield, and were treated respectably. At 10 o'clock in the forenoon, a poorly clad and dejected-looking woman applied to Sergeant HICKS for lodging. She gave her name as JANE ECKER, said she was a native of England, and 28 years of age; that she was homeless and weary, and desired a place to rest, at least for a while. She was sent down stairs, and placed in a lodging-apartment with another woman. In about ten minutes after the first occupant of the cell called loudly for help. An officer going to ascertain the cause, found the woman ECKER lying upon the floor, vomiting freely. She was pale and speechless, and exhibited other indications of suffering from poison. A physician was sent for, when it was discovered that she had taken diluted caustic—so much of it, the physician thought, as to defeat the purpose intended. A vial with a portion of the stuff was found in her pocket. Remedies were administered, and at last accounts [illegible]

SILAS H. COLWELL, No. 301 West-street.

The evidence against these persons was also plain, and doubtless speedy justice will be meted them.

Ninth Ward.—The old Station-house of this Ward, at No. 94 Charles-street, is yet unoccupied by the Police of this Ward, whose head quarters are to be found at Jefferson Market. Sergeant SHARPES reported last night everything unusually quiet. In nine years he had never known a more tranquil Sunday. Out of nearly 400 drinking-places, only 11 were found in open violation of the law.

Tenth Ward.—Sergeant DAVIS, who was in charge at sunset, says he has never known it more quiet in the Tenth Ward since his connection with the Police Department. With a few exceptions the lager bier and liquor shops were closed; the Jews, as a general thing, also closed their places of business. They will go into their new (the old) Station-houses probably on Wednesday of the present week.

From the Bowery, through Division-street to Essex, our reporter counted some forty places of business open. Of these there were only some half dozen liquor and lager-bier shops, the balance were cigar stores, fruit and ice-cream saloons, and millinery shops. Many of the latter evidently being occupied as residences, and there was very little business doing.

Eleventh Ward.—The old Station-house was taken possession of on Saturday, swept and garnished, and everything was progressing in the most satisfactory manner. Neither lager bier nor liquor were anywhere openly sold, at least the exceptions were very rare.

Thirteenth Ward.—The old station house, which has been thoroughly cleansed and put in excellent order, has been occupied since Saturday afternoon. Sergeant STEERS, who went personally through the Ward, found all quiet; the liquor and lager bier shops nearly all closed; and during five years of the twelve he has been on the Police, he has never seen it more peaceable. There were some exceptions which were bold and defiant in their violation of the law; these will be reported to day. They have only specials in the Ward; the Jews were not notified, but will be as soon as their organization is complete. Mr. C. ROBINSON is making the tour of the station-houses for the purpose of examining the Telegraph apparatus, which will probably be in working order during the present week.

Seventeenth Ward.—Capt. HARTT reports a general obedience to the order for closing stores on Sunday in his Ward, and throughout the day there was no disturbance reported. The Police were patroling the Ward.

The reporter, however, found the German Theatre, KARL's, and many other lager bier saloons in full blast, and through Avenue A, there were very few of these roberts shut up, and these, at sunset, had a light inside, showing that the places were occupied, even if the lager was not dispensed. The open and defiant manner in which the business was going on showed a determination to disregard any and all orders for shutting shop on Sunday.

They took possession of their new Station house on the 16th.

Eighteenth Ward.—All quiet. Only a few petty offenders arrested. Liquor places nearly all closed.

Nineteenth Ward.—No difficulty of any importance occurred in this Precinct. Places where intoxicating liquors are sold showed respect for the Sunday law, but the lager-bier places did a great business.

The Police Station-houses—Their Condition.

A Committee of mechanics appointed to examine into the condition of the City Station-houses, on Saturday made the following report:

F. A. Tallmadge, Superintendent:

SIR: In conformity with your request, we visited the following Station-houses, and would beg leave to report as follows:

First Ward.—The Station-house was closed, and we could not ascertain the whereabouts of the person having the key.

Second Ward.—Found the house in good condition except cleaning, which was being done under the direction of Sergeant WEED. Found several of the iron bedsteads broken, and chairs out of repair.

Third Ward.—Is in a fair condition, except white-washing and scrubbing, which was being done under the direction of Capt. HOPKINS. It wants clothes-closets for each man, the same as the Eighth and some of the other Wards have. It requires painting throughout, some new floors in the cells, and some of the locks need repairing, &c.

Fourth Ward.—Found this house in a very filthy condition—the bedsteads and furniture in a broken and damaged state, the Croton and gas pipes out of order, and the gas escaping. The house will require painting, scrubbing, whitewashing, &c., throughout.

Fifth Ward.—This house is in good order, except the water-closets and sewer connecting with the main sewer, which is partially stopped up and overflows when much used. Wants painting and white-washing. Furniture in pretty good order.

Sixth Ward.—This house is in a very bad condition. The water-pipes are out of order. The plaster is much damaged in consequence of the roof leaking in several places. The officer in command says it will require a new roof. The furniture and oil-cloths are all worn out, and the house will require a thorough cleaning and painting. The stone steps require resetting, the lamps repaired, &c.

Seventh Ward.—The house is in a very dirty condition. The scrubbing was being done under the direction of the officer in charge; the bedsteads are many of them out of order and the Captain's desk requires covering; the gas pipes are broken; the oil-cloths and furniture are much damaged; locks for the cells require repairing, and the water closets are not fit for use and should be altered so as to be self-acting; the lower stairs require repairing very much; the wood work should be painted.

Eighth Ward.—The house requires painting inside and out, and the Captain's private room requires papering; some additional closets for the men, also new window shades, oil-cloth on platform around the desk are required; part of the cellar needs flagging and the lodgers' apartments require to be fitted up; bolts on windows and locks on doors.

Ninth Ward.—The house is in a filthy condition; requires whitewashing and repainting very much; the lumbing work is much out of order; the flagging in the yard will have to be relaid to prevent the water from running in the cellar; the locks are out of order; windows are also required for ventilation; also new hose and pipes are needed.

Tenth Ward.—Wants cleaning and painting; chairs, furniture and some of the bedsteads need repairing.

Eleventh Ward.—The house is in pretty good order except whitewashing and cleaning; the furniture and many of the bedsteads are much damaged; the wood work requires painting and the part that is grained needs varnishing.

Twelfth Ward.—This house is very much out of order and requires considerable repairs; the roof is an old shingle one; the plaster and painting require overhauling; the roof should be raised, and a tin one substituted. The office requires refitting; a lodging-room is also required for the use of male and female lodgers; the bedsteads are all in good order; the house needs whitewashing and cleaning.

Thirteenth Ward.—This house is much out of order; the gas pipes and telegraph wires are broken, and this appears to have been done intentionally; the furniture also is badly broken; the house is being whitewashed and cleaned under the direction of the officer in charge.

Fourteenth Ward.—This house is in very good order, with the exception of the cells; which require cleaning and whitewashing and new bunks or bedsteads, the present ones being full of vermin, &c. The doors of the cells are much out of order; the gas pipes require repairing; the front office requires painting.

Fifteenth Ward.—This house is in very bad order and requires a great deal of repairing; the cells and sleeping-rooms are out of order, and the iron bedsteads and furniture are badly broken; the house needs repainting inside and out; the plastering is much broken; the house is old and will cost from $500 to $750 to make the necessary alterations and repairs.

Sixteenth Ward.—This house is in good condition, and is being cleaned under the direction of the officer in command; requires some cells for female lodgers; also some locks and clothes closets for the men.

Seventeenth Ward.—This house is in good order; requires to be whitewashed, cleaned, and painted inside; the furniture is much out of order.

Eighteenth Ward.—The house is in good order and requires only whitewashing and cleaning; the furniture requires no repair; the water-closets are out of order.

Nineteenth Ward.—This house is in a bad condition, and requires cleaning and whitewashing throughout and a thorough painting. The sidewalk needs flagging, and the cells should be repaired.

Twentieth Ward.—The walls and floors want washing and cleaning throughout. The furniture and bedsteads are out of order, and the locks on front door want repairing.

A BOAT CAPSIZED—THREE LIVES LOST—[illegible] terday morning three persons—Miss G. F. [illegible] F. CONWAY and C. W. DICKINSON—left the foot of Ninetieth-street in a sail-boat for Harlem, where they intended to spend the day. But, after having [illegible] from a pleasant sail down the East River to go up to their destination, all their canvas was raised and the boat keeled over, throwing the inmates into the water. There were some boys bathing near by, who procured a boat and proceeded towards them as soon as they could. The men were clinging to the sides of the boat when the boys started, but the woman had gone down. Before the boys reached the boat the men became exhausted and went down, so that all three were joined. They were grappled for by some fishermen, but none of the bodies had been recovered at a late hour last evening. The names of the parties were ascertained from articles found in the boat, which is in the hands of Mr. DAVENPORT, at the foot of One Hundred and First-street, for identification.

NEW-JERSEY.

Accident at Hoboken Ferry.

At 8¼ o'clock, last evening, the chains of the bridge in the Barclay-street Ferry slip, at Hoboken, gave way, and the bridge sunk so rapidly that several persons were precipitated overboard, and many others were wet considerably. It is believed, however, that all were rescued from the water. An accident of the same nature occurred with the same bridge two years ago, at which time several lives were lost. The bridges should be constructed with floats under them.

STATEMENT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

Mr. MARSELL, Superintendent of the Ferry, makes the following statement as to the accident. A large crowd was on the bridge waiting the arrival of a boat, which was but a few yards from the slip. There may have been, and doubtless was, nearly a thousand people on the bridge.

He stood at one of the wheels, preparing to let down the bridge, when suddenly the supporting chain gave way on his side, followed by the instantaneous breaking of the hook of the chain opposite. The forward part of the bridge at once fell to the water, which fortunately, from its being nearly high tide at the time was only two or three feet from the bridge. There was considerable excitement for a few minutes, and he was apprehensive that a large number had been thrown into the water and some of them drowned, with severe injuries to others. But one man only was thrown into the water and he was speedily rescued, having sustained no other damage than getting his clothes drenched. Several sustained slight bruises from the hurry and jam, in trying to get off from the bridge.

The bridge had two very heavy safety chains, in addition to the ordinary chains.

He thinks that it was not the weight of the passengers that broke the chains, but some flaw in the one that gave way first. Mr. MARSELL says that he invariably cautions people from crowding in two large numbers upon the ferry bridges but it is impossible to make them give any attention to it. He says, moreover, that, as Superintendent of the ferries he has expended large sums of money at different times in making improvements upon the Ferries, simply to insure additional security to the lives of passengers. He expects for all this that a large number of passengers will be killed some day, and although the fault is wholly their own, the company have to pay a round sum of damages.

REMOVAL.

I. M. SINGER & CO. have removed their Sewing Machine business to their new, white, marble-front building, No. 458 Broadway, corner of Grand-st. In buying such an article as a sewing machine the truest economy is to buy the best. They who purchase SINGER'S machines always get what they want, and use them with satisfaction and profit; while they who buy any of the cheaper and inferior machines in the market are sure to suffer disappointment, vexation and loss.

CANCER AND CONSUMPTION TREATMENT.—The undersigned, in consequence of the number of patients under treatment, are [illegible] in Western Illinois and Minnesota.

[illegible] Correspondence.

[illegible] Saturday, July 11, 1857.

Leaving Iowa, where my last was dated, I visited [illegible] the entire length of the Illinois and Burlington Railroad, from Quincy to Galesburg, to Chicago, a distance of 265 miles. For the first 180 miles, from Quincy to Galesburg, there is nothing special to be noted. There are many good fields of wheat, but much of the corn appears very backward, and a very favorable season will be needed to give an average crop. From Galesburg northward, on northeast, most of the way to Chicago, is one of the finest sections of prairie country I have visited. Wheat is grown extensively, chiefly of the spring variety, and all unite in saying that this crop never looked better at this season here-abouts. In Bureau County I saw 900 acres in one plot, owned by three brothers, I believe. Wheat fields of fifty to one-two and three hundred acres, are not uncommon.

From Chicago to this point, along the Michigan Central Railroad, there is a fair sprinkling of Winter wheat, most of which looks exceedingly well for an abundant harvest. The ridges is reported as far superior to those last year. Corn is quite as far advanced as in many places I have visited hundreds of miles further east, and farmers generally say they have hopes of a full yield, if the Autumnal frosts do not come as early. Oats and other Spring grain promise as much, I believe, if not better than [illegible]

[illegible] I noticed that several persons are commencing the culture of small fruits, especially strawberries, for the Chicago market, and the enterprise will pay well, at that city, having no immediate competition. I noticed as several Chicago market gardeners from the Cincinnati market for them. I visited one such in Kankakee, a dozen miles from Chicago, and learned that the largest supply for this season had come from the South. J.

The Wine Crop in France.

Correspondence of the London Times.

The vine growers appear to have successfully checked the oidium with sulphur in the few places where it has appeared, and great hopes are entertained of the forthcoming vintage.

[illegible] which is well kept up at Beziers, notwithstanding the [illegible] from the wine producing departments are quiet on account of the holidays, or tendency to full prices. The Bordeaux wine trade is also quiet. The result of the blossoming is awaited with anxiety. The proprietors of vineyards still express an opinion that there will be no great fall in the price of wine even should there be an abundant vintage. The price of spirits distilled from beetroot at 90 degrees is quoted in Paris at 115f. the hectolitre.

The Bordeaux Vignoble says:

"To the dry and warm weather of the last few days have succeeded heavy storms of rain, which, without having done general mischief, have caused a certain degree of uneasiness. The blossoming of the vine, which is happily over in the south, is not yet so in the other vine-growing countries, and fears are entertained that damage may have been done. The danger, however, will be less if the changes not to great heat does not come on too sudden. The storm which have taken place during the last week at Paris and in a number of the department have not been innocuous, as the hail has done damage in certain localities, particularly in the vineyards from Fontainebleau to Meta. Everywhere also the vine continues to look prosperous."

The temporary Hospitals at Seguine's Point are a failure. We doubt very much if the shanties ever used to the present of dying yellow-fever patients, [illegible] certainly are not yet such as [illegible] reflect very much credit, nor such as to insure a rapid or [illegible] to convalescents. The act under which the Commissioners are at work, enables them to provide "temporary accommodations," provided that these expenses shall not exceed the sum of $50,000. Out of the pay out of the Commissioners have been obliged to pay the expenses that the infuriated tory [illegible] have mulcted the public with. When the Act was passed, there was a house standing on the Wolfe farm that would have answered very well for the purpose, and his contracts to occupy. They had to wait at the greatest disadvantages. All their workmen they had to import for the purpose; they had to do [illegible] with hayseeds, and the bills to pay for the force under Capt. WALLING, which, ever since they commenced work, have stood guard over the place. They have costs of Courts to pay and [illegible] to pay, and far worse than, that their "accommodations" scarcely look like $50,000 worth of shanty and board lodgings.

Taking Seguine's Point, one finds outside of the fenced farm, two shanties that are occupied by policemen and workmen.

Before the Quarantine Commissioners surrender their trusts upon the property, these two will be taken down—they are no part of the accommodations. The house that belongs to the Quarantine Inclosure is a [illegible] board house, through which no breath of air can pass. It is very unfortunately tight on the south side, since it is built along the brow of the bank, and affording a complete obstacle to the sea breeze. Some grateful officer so much [illegible] for the feverish patients. Inside of the house are two well-built, well-ventilated and comfortable rooms. Of course, they are but a single story high, are unfurnished within and painted white, and their windows shaded with green blinds, [illegible] shade, there are no "accommodations." There is a well for a privy, but there is no outhouse for any one but a well-wash-house. There is no physician's house, no resident house for the nurses, no parlor, no lounging room for convalescents. The [illegible] of Emigration, we are quite sure, will accept of the premises as proper cases for the Seven Hospital.

As we have said, Quarantine Commissioners are broke out of money, and until the Legislature meets again, there is no quarter to which the Police detained on this duty can look for pay but to them. The moment the Police are withdrawn, the oysterman burn down the buildings and fasten the wells [illegible] a spirit of accommodation, the Commissioners [illegible] should conclude to accept the property; they have no money to hire policemen with to detain it, nor would they be anxious to. They would [illegible] the Police at once, and that night Eltonvin, to Henville, Bloming Grove, and all these suburbs would contribute men with blackened faces, bearing torches, and the $50,000 worth of temporary "accommodations" would be resolved into smoke.

It is curious that the oysterman, in view of the "spontaneous combustion," so to speak, which certainly awaits the obnoxious buildings, do not take things easier and wait in patience their last day.

The policemen say that the oysterman have a pride in the matter—they have a reputation to support—they have sworn together, and drank much gin over it, that the Metropolitan Police wouldn't prevent them, and hence their extreme anxiety, even at the risk of life, and the mortgaging of a score of oyster beds, to have the conflagration come off, while Captain WALLING, and his thirty-five men, armed with thirty-five muskets, clubs and revolvers, beside two [illegible] howitzers, are there to prevent them.

The Police confidently expected an attack on Saturday night. All of Saturday that was not given to [illegible] for the fish and clamming on the flats, they spent in rubbing up their revolvers and filing their bayonet ends, for—

Captain WALLING was arrested Friday night, on the charge of stealing $180 from Mr. LAFOURETTE, whom he (the Captain) has been trying his very best for the last week to serve a warrant of arrest upon. Twice he had been to LAFOURETTE's house, but the [illegible] who met him politely at the door, with the assured him that the gentleman he sought had just gone out. Would'nt he wait? He would not, he is for an hour or two, probably not for a day, but he was welcome to wait if he would. Friday morning Capt. WALLING went for the third time to the house accompanied by several of his men—LAFOURETTE was out, of course for he is one of the parties identified as present in the attack of Sunday night week. But determined to satisfy himself, the Captain and his men entered, searched the house, looked under the fugitive's bed and in it, and left at last, satisfied that the good woman who kept the door had told the strict truth. He went home a good deal disgusted. That night the rumors said that several oystermen were to be seen skulking up toward the grove that lies beyond the pond on the west of the grounds, and about the same time, a gentleman called upon Capt. WALLING, announced himself a constable, and Capt. WALLING his prisoner. He read the warrant issued by a Staten Island justice of the peace, in which he was charged, upon the affidavit of Mr. LAFOURETTE, with having broken into the house, and stolen $180 there from. Graciously, however, the Captain was permitted to sleep in the shanty that night, upon promise that he would be and appear at Tottenville in the morning to answer before the Justice. Early Saturday morning Captain WALLING rushed up to the City, got the Quarantine Commissioners, his friend, Mr. E. L. CLINTON, and the Attorney-General, Mr. CUSHING, and with them, and the bail bonds in his pocket, returned, reported himself at Tottenville, and was discharged upon his bonds. The present appearance of the bonds doubtless took the oystermen by surprise. It was a part of their calculation—so the policemen thought, to catch the Captain and detain him at Tottenville so long before the Justice that he would have to spend Saturday night in the City, drumming up his friends. In his absence they would try the pluck of Sergeant SEARRIGG, hoping that the howitzers would be less lively in response to their pistols if the Captain were away. But there was no attack on Saturday night, and up to the hour of our going to press no messenger had rushed up in hot haste to inform us that there was one on Sunday night. It is postponed probably to another Saturday night. There is no other night when they are all at home together, and most of the little gin they drink, out of which incendiaries always pluck their spirit, they imbibe upon [illegible]

[illegible] night, he had been [illegible] fire started at 12 o'clock Friday night, and after it had been extinguished, straw, shavings, &c., were found stuffed between the weather-board and lath and plaster of the house. A few moments before the fire broke out WALLY was seen coming out of the alley where the fire originated, and having previously made threats to the other tenants that in case of his ejectment he would burn the house, suspicion rested on him. When taken before Justice FLANDREAU, he did not deny setting the place on fire, but said if he did it he must have been drunk. He was locked up for trial.

MONDAY, July 20—A. M.

The steamship Vanderbilt, at this port from Havre and Southampton, Wednesday, July 8, brings four days later market news from Paris and London, and three from Liverpool, than the mails by the America at Boston. The London Discount market had experienced further ease, and the position of the Bank of England was growing stronger by the influx of Gold. Some bills had been done outside of Bank at 5⅝ ⅌ cent. ⅌ annum. But on the Stock Exchange there was continued demand for Money at 6 ⅌ cent. The calculation was that a further reduction of interest to 5½ if not 5 ⅌ cent. would be made by the Bank Directors on or before Thursday, 16th of July, the week after the Steamer sailed. An earlier reduction even was not only possible but quite within the range of the general look of the Discount market. The Paris Bourse continued greatly depressed, and the fall had been increased by the success of three of the candidates for the National Assembly in opposition to the Government. The Rente had fallen below 67 ⅌ cent. and Credit Mobilier shares to 920 francs. The Bank of France, however, was gaining Specie. With this state of things in Paris and the late news of the outbreak in British India, the English Funds had sympathized to the extent of ⅛@⅜ ⅌ cent., closing on Tuesday, July 7, at 92⅝@¾. As nearly the lowest New-York quotations had just been received in London, the market there for American Railway Stocks fell off to correspond. Some sales of Illinois Central Sevens are quoted at 88¼ ⅌ cent., and the shares were offered at 116 ⅌ cent. Sales of Michigan Southern Sinking Funds at 66, and Michigan Central eights of 1869 at 91¼ ⅌ cent. Eries of '83 held at 80 ⅌ cent.; Sinking Fund 80; 75 bid. New-York Central Securities remained steady, the 6 ⅌ cents held for 80, and the 7s at 20 ex dividend. The sales of Cotton at Liverpool on Tuesday, July 7, were 7,000 bales, the turn of prices rather in favor of the seller. A further advance of ⅛d. in yarns at Manchester is reported. The Goods market rather flat.

The Foreign Trade at the port of New-York was marked by a large entry of Foreign Merchandise, the total, including the Dry Goods table in our last paper, being $19,130,640, against $5,924,680 the week ending 19th July last year. The Custom Duties paid into the Sub-Treasury during the week amount to $1,521,618, but the Government expenditures at this point being again quite considerable, the accumulation of Specie is only $485,458. The balance on Saturday stood $11,346,427, against $10,861,069 at the close of the previous week. The Export demand for Specie was quite moderate; for Liverpool and the West Indies, direct from New-York, $52[illegible],367, against $500,191 same week last year, and [illegible] Boston, $365,000, against $706,000 same week last year. Of the sum which went from Boston, $[illegible] was sent by express from this City. The deliveries of Gold by the California packet on Monday last, amounted to $1,521,676. These various Specie movements result in an apparent gain to the Bank reserve of $274,856, but as the average was a rising one early in the week the statement this afternoon will probably show over thirteen millions as against $12,666,145 last Monday. The Export and Sub-Treasury demand for the present week, will propably exceed the last, as two favorite steamers, the Arabia and the Arago sail direct, the first on Wednesday, and the second on Saturday next. The present appearance of Exchange, however, and the downward tendency of the rates of discount and price of Gold in London and Paris, do not justify the expectation of any very considerable shipments, while further supplies of Bullion may be looked for from California early in the week following. The packet sailed from San Francisco on Monday, 6th July, and will be due by Wednesday, 29th. The interior exchanges continue in favor of New-York, and some further small parcels of Gold have come from the South and West. The Money market rules easy, particularly to Street borrowers, while the comparative scarcity of Stocks for immediate delivery limits the employment of Money on the Stock Exchange, although there is quite a speculation for the rise now going on. Discounts, when declined at, or too long in date for Bank, are done at 8@9 ⅌ cent. on prime, and 10@12 ⅌ cent. on fair lists of paper, through the Brokers. The Exports of Produce keep light, and will so continue until the receipts from the new crop of Grain begin to be felt. The total this week, including Miscellaneous articles, is $962,814, against $1,976,582 the corresponding week last year.

The Fiscal or Treasury year being closed with the month of June, we now resume our comparison of the Foreign Trade and Specie movements at this port for the Calendar year. According to the monthly returns from the Custom-House, from the 1st of January, 1857, to the 1st of July, inst., the Imports of Foreign Merchandise at New-York amounted to.....$115,557,000
Add two weeks in July.....17,816,306
Total to date.....$133,373,306
Against same time in 1856.....118,040,839
Increase to date.....$15,332,467

According to the same tables the Exports of Domestic Produce and Miscellaneous Goods (including Foreign reexported) from the 1st of January to the 1st of July, were.....$38,501,000
Add two weeks in July.....2,075,493
Total to date.....$40,576,493
Against same time 1856.....43,204,576
Decrease to date.....$2,627,883

The same tables make the Export of Specie from 1st of January to 1st of July.....$32,598,000
Add two weeks in July.....1,707,434
Total to date.....$34,305,434
In 1856 (correcting error in Custom-House) 17,513,607
Increase to date.....$16,791,827

The following is a comparative statement of the exports hence of the leading articles of Domestic Produce and Miscellaneous Goods, for the week, and the corresponding week last year:

The inside figure represents the last sales on Saturday week, July 11. The outside column the closing bids on Saturday afternoon, July 18. The final advance, it will be noticed, is very general. The business done was not so large as the previous week, the speculators against the rise being less disposed to put out contracts. Indeed, they were the chief buyers of Erie, Southern Michigan and one or two other stocks, for cash, at the top rates on Thursday; though subsequently renewing their contracts on seller's option, 10 to 60 days, at lower prices. The fluctuations of the week afforded unusual interest to the market, besides enabling the commission brokers to make several profitable turns for their outside customers on the same stock. Altogether the Bulls had rather the best of the dealings, the very decided turn in Erie shares from 27 to 34 ⅌ cent. having carried up nearly the whole list. The Bears, however, after their first fright is this and other stocks, rallied toward the close of the week, and put out their options with some freedom, particularly in Southern Michigan. The general market for cash stocks left off firm. Erie could not be bought much, if anything, under 33 ⅌ cent. The Bonds of the Company were also firm and higher, and State Stocks in improved request.

The earnings of the New-York and Erie Railroad for June were as follows:

June, 1857	$421,635 31
June, 1856	499,782 86
June, 1855	396,837 69
Decrease from June, 1856	$78,146 86
Increase over June, 1855	24,797 62

The June settlement is better by $40,000 than the falling off in gross receipts at the end of the month indicated. Three of the best months for traffic remain to close up the current Railroad year, and notwithstanding the discouragements of the Fall and Winter, from the untoward strike among the engineers and other employes along the line of the road, and the deficient sources of freight for nearly all the roads through the Spring and Summer, the traffic of the year promises to exceed that of 1855 by $100,000 or $200,000, while falling short of the extraordinary good luck of 1856 by perhaps half a million or $600,000.

Messrs. LE HURAY & Co. quote Land Warrants as follows:

Buying Prices.		Selling Prices.
40 acres	$1 12½	40 acres	$1 15
80 acres	97	80 acres	1 00

The week's tonnage over the Treverton works is 4,109, and for the season 46,494 tons. The Delaware and Lackawanna Company show a transportation income for June of $142,780 and for the season $675,161, against only $475,125 to same date last season.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the New-York and Erie Road on Saturday, Mr. CHAS. MORAN was made a member of the Board in place of Mr. WILLIAM E. DODGE, resigned, and then unanimously elected President of the Company, in place of Mr. Hoxsey [illegible] continuing a member of the Board. This arrangement is not only mutually satisfactory to the parties immediately concerned, but will, we trust, have the public confidence and enlist the heartiest cooperation of the stock and bondholders. Mr. MORAN comes to this office, not only with an enlarged general experience in financial and railway affairs, but an honest belief, from past service as a Director in the Erie Company, in the vitality and resources of this great property, and has the will, we know, to conquer success in all his undertakings on its behalf.

Mr. JOHN V. L. PRUYN, the first Treasurer of the New-York Central Road, laid his resignation before the Board of Directors previous to his late visit to Europe. Since his return, a few days ago, finding that no action had been taken on the subject, he again requested to be relieved of the office, and pursuant to this wish, Mr. GILBERT L. WILSON, Assistant Treasurer, was promoted to Treasurer-in-Chief. The Albany Argus remarks:

"It is a year or more since Mr. PRUYN announced to the Board his intention to withdraw from the duties of the Treasurership, which had been exceedingly arduous during the first years after the consolidation.

On going to Europe last Fall, he left his resignation for the action of the Board, but the Directors omitted to act upon it during his absence. Mr. PRUYN having returned, called it up yesterday, and had it accepted. Mr. WILSON has for over two years been acting as Assistant Treasurer, and is entirely familiar with the duties, and they could not be devolved on a more competent officer.

Mr. PRUYN, who has heretofore devoted himself so untiringly to the interests of the road, remains in the direction, and has been unanimously appointed general counsel of the corporation, and the stockholders will be glad to learn will continue to give his time to its affairs. The new arrangement is entirely a harmonious one, both in the Board and with the officers concerned, and is calculated to effect a desirable division of labor and responsibility.

London Money Market.

From the London Times, July 3.

TUESDAY EVENING.—The news from Paris of the defeat of the Government candidates in the elections yesterday, and the apprehension that this event is but the commencement of a new period of political disquietude, caused the English funds to open to day with increased heaviness, and to continue dull and inactive to the close of business. The anxiety, which increases with each hour of suspense, on the part of the large number of persons who have friends or relatives in India likewise communicates itself to the public at large, and creates a universal effect such as has rarely been witnessed. Consols, which left off last evening at 93⅝@¾, have suffered the further decline of ⅜% to ⅛, and experienced no variation, the fresh arrival of specie from America and the steady influx of bullion at the Bank of England failing to produce any rebound.

Money was in demand to day in the Stock Exchange on Government securities at 6 ⅌ cent., the circumstance that all the advances made by the Bank during the shutting must be repaid by Saturday next, tending to absorb the available supply. The amount of these advances, however, is believed not to have been such as will lead to any pressure in their being met. In the discount market this morning some exceptional transactions took place at 5½ ⅌ cent., and at the Bank there appeared to be few applications. Great doubts are expressed as to the probability of a lowering of the rate of discount even on Tuesday next. After to-day, however, the course which the Bank may adopt will not be a matter of immediate importance. While the revenue payments were flowing in, and the open market was thus being straitened, the Bank had the rate at their own command; but the disbursement of the dividends will, for a short time at least, render the public independent. A reduction on Thursday week, in the absence of any unlooked-for casualty, is regarded as certain.

In the foreign exchanges there was no change of importance from the rates of last post.

The Paris Bourse opened with increased heaviness, but at the close the Three per Cents. returned to the quotations of yesterday—67f. 15c. for money, and 67f. 20c. for the end of the month.

The letters from Paris to-day state that the recovery in the bullion of the Bank of France continues, and that the forthcoming return will probably exhibit an increase of £200,000 or £300,000 over that of last month.

About £55,000 in gold, chiefly Australian, was sold to the Bank to-day.

London Trade Report.

TUESDAY EVENING, July 7.

SUGAR.—There were several public sales to-day. Only a part of 250 hhds. Barbadoes put up found buyers at 32s. to 61s., being about on a par with last week. Privately the business is very small—in all, with those sold at auction, 317 hhds. 6,917 bags of various kinds (of which the following are particulars) were nearly all taken in. The market is flat and lower. Benares, at 61s., were at 1s. discount; Mauritius, 3,683 bags brown, 51s.@53s.; fine, 53s. 6d.@55s.; good middling yellow, 57s.@58s. 6d.; crystallized good middling bright yellow, 61s.@63s.; Madras, 201 bags date kinds, 45s.@41s.; Benares, 1,266 bags low white, 60s. 6d.@61s.; yellowish white, 60s.; Manila, 2,477 bags good and fine brown, 53s.@56s.

RICE.—The market was flat, and 6,000 bags Java were withdrawn from auction at 11s. 6d. and 12s., and 2,200 bags Bengal at 14s. 3d.@14s. 6d. for good quality, and 11s.@11s. 6d. for broken and low middling. 1,000 bags Rangoon, damaged, were partly sold; but yesterday 8,000 bags sound were disposed of at 10s. 1½d. ⅌ cwt. There were also some private transactions in white rice at rather cheaper prices, and 1,000 bags Moonghy for cash.

SALTPETRE.—A brisk demand has sprung up for parcels on arrival, and about 1,000 bags have changed hands at 40s. 6d. ⅌ cwt., closing at 41s. ⅌ cwt. On the spot there is also more inquiry, and 2,000 bags Bombay, at public sale, brought 38s. 6d.@38s. for high refractions; 250 bags Bengal, 7¼ ⅌ cent. refraction, were held for 39s. ⅌ cwt.

COCHINEAL.—Of 249 bags offered at public sale to-day the Honduras was chiefly sold at rather better prices for the good grains, low and ordinary without alteration—viz; 117 bags Honduras silver, low to good, 2s. 11d.@4s. 2d.; 14 bags do., black ordinary to good, 4s. 3d.@5s. 4d.; 24 bags Teneriffe ordinary silver, 3s. 10d.@3s. 11d.; and 64 bags do., black ordinary to good, 4s. 3d.@4s. 7d. ⅌ lb., bought in.

LEATHER AND HIDES.—The supply of fresh leather at Leadenhall to-day was very short. Crops were in fair request, and a good inquiry prevailed for light butts, light skins, shoulders and offal. The demand for heavy butts, dressing hides, and shaved hides was only moderate. In other goods the transactions were limited, but prices generally have undergone no change since last week. Market hides were in fair supply, without alteration in value.

TALLOW.—There has been but little doing to-day—58s. is the price on the spot, and 57s. 9d. for the last three months' delivery.

Trade in France.

From the Paris Correspondence of London Times.

Trade was quiet last week in Paris. The manufacturers delivered some articles for the fair of Beaucaire, and received promises of extensive orders from Russia and the United States. It must be recollected, however, that this is the dead season for several branches of industry. This is the moment, likewise, when the extensive shopkeepers in Paris and the manufacturers in the provinces are occupied in taking stock and arranging their accounts, as they do not expect business to become more active before the month of September. For these reasons the tradesmen of Paris have not as yet had much occasion to take advantage of the reduction of the rate of interest by the Bank of France, and the dockets presented to the Bank for discount have been composed of commercial bills passed for purchases of raw silk and wool. We have now some accurate information as to the silk crop. The breeding of the silkworm is concluded in the greater number of the silkworm nurseries, and the result is a half crop in the south of France. Some localities will give even 75 ⅌ cent. This calculation is more favorable than the news we received a month since would lead us to expect; but at that moment half the worms as yet reared had been cut off by disease. Fortunately, eggs were abundant, and fresh worms were produced, which succeeded better. On the other hand, the accounts from Lombardy and Piedmont are more satisfactory, but, nevertheless, silk will be dear this year. The cocoons, which have arrived in France in great quantities, are selling at from 8f.@9f. 25c. the kilogramme. In Genoa they are selling at 9f.@10f. The crop of silk produced in Europe this year will not be sufficient for the consumption, and we must again have recourse to India and China. A decline in the price of corn and wine is becoming more apparent according as the result of the approaching harvest is better appreciated. The farmers are now determined to bring their old wheat to market, and the fall in prices is general throughout the departments. White wheat was sold at the last Paris market at 41f. the 120 kilogrammes, and wheat from Picardy at from 38f.@38f. 50c. The harvest has commenced in the south of France, and is most productive. The accounts from Italy, and particularly from Naples, are excellent as regards the crops. This good news has produced a considerable effect at Marseilles, where the market shows a further tendency to decline. At the last Paris flour-market sales were difficult. Sellers were forced to submit to a reduction of 1f.@2f. the sack of 157 kilogrammes for superior quality, and 3f. and 4f. for inferior quality. The best marks were quoted at 73f. 50c. for delivery, and at only 65f. for the last three months of the year. The flour in the reserved market stores amounts to 8,000 metrical quintals. The millers are waiting for the new wheat to come to market before they begin to grind. A decided fall in prices has at length declared itself in the Beziers wine-market, as well as in the wine-growing districts. But it is not expected that any serious effect will be produced until the vintage is over, and the quantity and quality of the wine are ascertained. The growers expect large orders for exportation from Russia and the United States, in consequence of the reduction of the import duties in those countries. The blossoming of the vine has been impeded by storms in some localities, but in general it took place [illegible]

Money and Stocks at Cincinnati.

From the Weekly Circular of Messrs. A. Helmer.

The movement of the stock market in the past week has been more active, and transactions evince more firmness on the part of operators in the early improvement in prices, and the full restoration of confidence in first-class securities. This feeling is mainly based upon the abundance of the harvest, which is now in progress in the Southern part of Indiana and Ohio and throughout Kentucky, and some samples of wheat, barley and rye have already made their appearance on the Exchange, which fully realize in quality the anticipations previously expressed. The crop of all the small grains will be larger than any previous year. The movement of these crops will soon tax Western roads to their utmost capacity. The discussion of the crops is the all-absorbing question with all classes; and from every quarter comes up the most flattering accounts as to quality and productiveness.

Little Miami shares have sold to some extent at 90, at which rate there is a moderate demand; Hamilton & Dayton quiet at 67@68; Indianapolis & Cincinnati shares are very quiet at 62—most of this stock is held out of the market, in expectation of an early dividend of 4 ⅌ cent., which it is understood this company designed presenting out of the earnings of the past six months.

In Bonds the sales have been small, including Little Miami 6s at 86 and interest; Covington and Lexington 7 ⅌ cent. 2d mortgages at 60; Ohio and Mississippi 2d mortgage Construction Bonds are held at 55, but sales have been made as low as 50.

The earnings of the Covington and Lexington Road for the past month show a very decided and gratifying increase over the corresponding month of last year. Earnings for the month of

June, 1857	$34,862 80
June, 1856	29,754 65
Increase	$5,108 65

The money market is slightly easier, but none but first-class paper can be negotiated at fair rates. Other signatures are passed with great difficulty at 1¼ to 2 ⅌ cent. per month.

Eastern exchange is in moderate supply at ¼ to ⅜ premium; at which the market is firm, with a fair demand. New-Orleans funds are nominally ⅜ to ½ discount, with very little demand.
